The contests will be in Darbyville and Ashville. The Boosters party in Darbyville nominated

The complete unofficial list of candidates, as announced by the board of elections, appears on Page 2.

Wendell Neff and the Citizens party, Turney M. Calvert.
Harry Margulis, incumbent, seeks re-election as Ashville's mayor. His opponent is E. E. Fraumfelter, former mayor.

Radcliff Unopposed
Nominees for mayor in other villages are: Williamsport, William D. Radcliff; South Bloomfield, William D. Murray; New Holland, C. V. Stebleton, and Commercial Point, George Beers.

Four districts will vote on special issues. Commercial Point will ballot on local option. The petition to place the issue before voters shows 140 votes were cast on the last election. Thirty-five percent of the voters was required to place the issue on the ballot. Fifty-six, six more than necessary, signed the petition.

Deercreek township residents will vote on a proposed gymnasium-school addition requiring a bond issue of $30,000. It would be located east of the school building, would contain two classrooms, a kitchen, locker and shower rooms. The first and second grades would be transferred to the addition.

Wayne township will make a second attempt to vote a $3,000 bond issue for a one-room addition to the school for the seventh and eighth grades, now using the auditorium. A bond issue for the additional room was defeated in the 1936 election.

Scioto township will vote on a three-mill levy for three years for school operating expenses.

Board Members Unopposed
There will be no contest for positions on the Circleville board of education. Mrs. Howard Moore and Lawrence Goeller, whose

"I'm Not Guilty!"

"I'M NOT guilty and not afraid," said Mrs. Guy Dell Jackson Beckham, of Athens, Tex., pictured following her release on $5,000 bail in connection with the death of her husband, Beckham and his brother-in-law, Arlon Jackson, lost their lives while engaged in a fight during which they rolled into a lake. The fight allegedly began when Beckham charged that whiskey he drank had been poisoned. Beckham's body has been disinterred.

BURKE IN FAVOR OF JOHN GARNER FOR PRESIDENCY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(UP)—Sen. Edward R. Burke, D., Neb., said today he favored Vice-President John N. Garner as the Democratic candidate for president in 1940.

"The country needs now and will need increasingly a leader in the White House who has more than his allotted share of common sense and who will give assurance that business and industry at last will be free to go ahead and take a few millions off the relief rolls," Burke said.

"Jack Garner is that kind of a man."

BLOOD DONATION ASKED AS GRAVE DISEASE SPREADS

CHICAGO, Sept. 4—(UP)—Additional deaths from infantile paralysis were reported in two cities today as Chicago health officials appealed to survivors of the disease to donate blood for convalescent serum.

Three deaths were reported in Toronto and two in Chicago.

Dr. Herman Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, said 14 new cases were reported in Chicago today and that this figure was a new high for this year. Twenty-two other persons in Chicago were suspected of having the disease, he said.

FARMER SHOTS AT INTRUDER IN DARBY TOWNSHIP

An intruder on the property of Harry Furniss, Darby township, Friday night was believed to have been wounded Friday night by a shotgun charge.

Mr. Furniss told Sheriff Charles Radcliff that he heard someone in the barn and investigated with his shotgun. He said a man walked from the building, and he fired. He was a considerable distance from the intruder but believes the shot wounded the man. The man fled into a cornfield after the shot was fired.

The department was checking physicians Saturday to determine if anyone had been treated for minor shot wounds.

SAILOR HUNTED AS SUSPECT IN MATTSON DEATH

Tacoma Youth Abducted, Killed in 1936

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 4—(UP)—Honolulu police said today that a sailor from the freighter Manuwal told them that one of his shipmates had admitted he was the kidnaper and slayer of Charles Mattson, 10, of Tacoma, Wash.

J. P. McFarland, department of justice agent, questioned the informing sailor, but refused to comment.

The informant gave police the name and description of his shipmate who told of the kidnapping, and police said the description corresponded with that given by eyewitnesses to the kidnapping.

The Mattson boy, son of a Tacoma physician, was taken from his home the evening of Dec. 27, 1936 while he and several other children were playing with Christmas toys. The other children said a bearded man with a deep guttural voice was the kidnaper. The boy's body, mutilated, was found in a snowbank near Everett, Wash.

Discussion Overheard

Honolulu police said the sailor, who claimed to have talked with the Mattson kidnaper was picked up in a beer tavern near the waterfront after he was overheard discussing the case with drinking companions.

He was turned over to the department of justice agent, who left the police station with him.

It was learned that McFarland had asked police to start a city-wide search at once for the suspect.

Police watched the waterfront and ships that were preparing to sail were kept under strictest surveillance.

Police expressed confidence they would pick up the suspect and said that when they did he would be turned over to federal officials.

The manhunt proceeded with the utmost secrecy and the names of the sailors involved were not revealed.

AGED CARETAKER IN SYNAGOG IS KILLED BY POKER

STUEBENVILLE, Sept. 4—(UP)—Police today began investigation of an iron poker murder in a synagog.

They hunted the slayer of 63-year-old Reuben Mirvis, caretaker of B'Nai Israel synagog here, whose body was found in the rear room of the building last night by Rabbi Samuel Stamper.

Detectives said Mirvis had been beaten to death by an iron poker, found near the body. They studied fingerprints on the poker.

Services preliminary to observance of the Jewish new year were cancelled after discovery of the murder.

Supplies for the opening of schools next Monday and Tuesday were distributed.

All schools with the exception of Ashville, Harrison township, Pickaway and Monroe will open Monday. These schools will open Tuesday.

Lewis Hits Roosevelt And Davey

Labor Leader Speaks on Radio; Active Campaign In Ohio Considered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(UP)—John L. Lewis marshalled his forces today for a campaign of political action against the opponents of his Committee for Industrial Organization.

The labor leader clarified his plans last night in a radio speech in which he rebuked President Roosevelt.

Without referring to him by name, Lewis said: "It ill behooves one who has supped at labor's table and who has been sheltered in labor's house to curse with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries when they become locked in deadly embrace."

The president, during the recent C. I. O. steel strike, criticized actions of both labor and capital, quoting from Shakespeare: "A plague o' both your houses."

Lewis will direct the 3,718,000 members he claimed for the C. I. O. to vote against unfriendly officials when they seek reelection in the 1938 balloting.

Lewis selected Ohio for an early offensive. He predicted Gov. Martin L. Davey, who sent state troops into steel towns to assure peaceful reopening of struck plants, would not be in office "for long."

Davey's term ends next year. The indirect reference to Mr. Roosevelt added weight to repeated reports of a "break" between the president and Lewis.

TRIO OF SMALL GIRLS KILLED AS BOAT EXPLODES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4—(UP)—Three small girls were burned to death today when an explosion destroyed a 45-foot pleasure cruiser aboard which they were cruising to Santa Catalina island with their parents for a week-end holiday.

The parents, two couples, were rescued, badly burned, by the coast guard.

The victims, ranging from 8 to 14 years of age, were Vivian and Viola Timberlake and Alice Tigg. The girls were sleeping and were trapped below deck by the explosion.

The parents were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Timberlake and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tigg. A third couple aboard the cruiser, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berger, also were rescued. The cruiser sank after the blast and fire.

The coast guard patrol boat Aurora was heading for Los Angeles harbor with the children's bodies and the rescued adults. All six survivors were reported burned. The blast occurred below decks in the cabin craft. The cause was unknown.

JAPAN CHARGES SOVIET - CHINESE AIRLINE IN USE

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4—(UP)—A direct airline between Nanking and Moscow has been opened, paving the way for military co-operation between China and Russia, a Japanese military spokesman intimated today.

The spokesman said the present Chinese air line from Nanking to Lanchow, in the sparsely-settled Chinese northwest, has been extended to Chukuchak, in Russian-dominated territory in Turkestan. There it connects with the Soviet line to Moscow.

The Lanchow-Chukuchak leg will be operated by a joint Chinese-Russian company.

Service was opened Aug. 26, when two planes carrying 15 passengers, including Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, Sun Fo and Chin Lee-Fu, made a round trip flight.

RADNOR FARMER WINNER OF OHIO SHEARING JOUST

COLUMBUS, Sept. 4—(UP)—W. R. Welsh, a 40-year-old farmer living near Radnor, today has the "champion of champions" title awarded in a sheep shearing contest at the Ohio State fair.

Welsh clipped and tied two fleeces in six minutes and 26 seconds. It was the fastest time ever recorded in the seven years the competition has been held.

Welsh won the state championship in 1934. He has been shearing for 18 years and last season clipped about 5,000 heads.

Second place in the competition went to William Locke, 22, Clark county, the winner of the 1937 state title. Locke finished two seconds behind Welsh.

Lawrence W. Davis, Richmond, finished third; and Fred W. Tusling, Reynoldsburg, fourth.

The junior championship was gained by Eugene Campbell, 18, of Hopedale.

JOHN COBB HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN CHECK CASE

John Cobb, E. High street, was bound to the grand jury Friday by H. O. Eveland, justice of peace, on a bad check charge filed by O. B. Winters. Mr. Winters charges Cobb gave him a $5 check on July 31 on a bank in which he has no account. Mr. Cobb denied the charge and furnished $500 bond.

Robert Reed, who resides north of Circleville on Route 23, denied a charge of failure to provide for a child in Eveland's court Saturday and was bound to the grand jury under $500 bond. He furnished bond.

Fuller Cracks Record

SETTING a new Bendix transcontinental record from Los Angeles to Cleveland, Frank Fuller, San Francisco sportsman, made the distance in 7 hours, 54 minutes, cracking the old mark of 8 hours and 20 minutes, set by Jimmy Hailzip in 1932. Fuller continued on to Newark, N. J., to complete coast-to-coast flight, with an elapsed time of nine hours and 35 minutes.

Speed Events Scheduled For National Air Races

San Francisco Sportsman Reaches Cleveland In 7 Hours 54 Minutes of Flying Time

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4—(UP)—Frank W. Fuller, San Francisco sportsman who broke two records to capture the transcontinental Bendix trophy race, returns here today to receive the plaudits of thousands of aviation followers gathered for the National Air Races.

Fuller flies here from New York.

Today, the second day of the races opened yesterday by the spectacular Bendix competition, will be featured by two qualifying races to determine 10 starters in tomorrow's $15,000 Louis W. Greve trophy race.

Fuller sped his low-wing Severis fighter over the Cleveland airport 7 hours, 54 minutes and 26 seconds after he left Los Angeles, and roared on to New York to set a new Bendix mark of 9 hours, 36 minutes.

Two Marks Broken

His time in the race to Cleveland broke the records set by Capt. James T. Hallip in 1932, and his transcontinental mark bettered the one established in 1934 by Col. Roscoe Turner.

Jacqueline Cochran, only woman flier in the race, was the first to leave Los Angeles and the first to reach Cleveland. She ranked third in the final standing, based on elapsed time. In second place was Ortmann, of Los Angeles. Fourth place went to Frank Sinclair, whose time for trip was one minute less than that of Milo Burcham, fifth place winner.

Fuller won $13,000 in prize money. Others who placed divided $15,000. None except Fuller and Miss Cochran flew beyond Cleveland. She turned back at Pittsburgh when difficulties developed in the gas line of her plane.

Biggest thrill of the opening day of the show came late in the afternoon when Count Otto Hagenburg, of Germany, internationally famous stunt pilot, cracked up in his Buecker pursuit plane as he flew, upside down, close to the ground in front of the grandstand.

German To Continue

Hagenburg crawled out of the wreckage, walked to an ambulance and returned later to announce that he would continue stunting in a borrowed plane. The accident occurred when the rudder and a wing-tip of his ship dragged as he swooped too low in his exhibition of inverted flying.

Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Calif., won the Amelia Earhart memorial, a 25-mile race for women pilots, flying stock model planes.

Earlier qualifiers meet in a $10,000 race late today designed for planes with a maximum engine displacement of 397 cubic inches.

49 TRANSPORTS CARRY SOLDIERS INTO WAR ZONE

Shanghai Defenders Halt Tokyo's Crack Naval Detachments

FOREIGN LEADERS MEET

Admiral Hasegawa Invited to Visit Yarnell

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4—(UP)—Japan, her vaunted war machine halted by a history-making Chinese resistance, rushed a new army to Shanghai today in a desperate effort to capture the city quickly and restore her tarnished prestige.

Chinese intelligence operatives advised the high command that 49 Japanese transports, heavily loaded with troop reinforcements and munitions, had arrived off Woosung at the mouth of the Whangpoo river during the morning.

It was reported that the reinforcements included at least two divisions of infantry on full war footing—meaning a minimum troop strength, if true of from 40,000 to 50,000 men.

Out among the smoldering villages north of the city, China's ill-armed boys and men had stopped the trained automotons of the Japanese army in their tracks.

In the city, Chinese artillery batteries still smashed at the battered Japanese strongholds in Hongkew.

There was evidence that so embarrassing was the unexpected ferocity of the Chinese defense that the Japanese had altered their entire tactical plan.

First, warships were sent down to the mouth of the Whangpoo and around into the Yangtze to try again to blast the stubborn Chinese from where they have held back the Japanese all week.

Secondly, and more important, for the first time since the battle of Shanghai began four weeks ago the Japanese army landed men in the Shanghai sector proper—evidence that the navy lines were crumbling and that immediate reinforcement was necessary.

The American, British and French naval commanders in chief and consul generals held a secret conference today at the American consulate general.

After the conference, it was understood, Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, the American commander in chief, invited Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa to visit him on his flagship Augusta.

Hasegawa's reply was unknown. It was believed certain that the secret meeting concerned the urgent danger to which foreigners in Shanghai, and foreign warships, have been subjected by the new phase of the battle.

Today, as yesterday, shrapnel shells were bursting all over the sky above the international settlement. There were many minor casualties.

But in addition, today there was airplane activity intensified to a degree hardly seen during the four weeks of battle.

In the airplane activity, too, it was notable that the Chinese were giving as good as they got.

RUSSIA TO JOIN DRIVE AGAINST MYSTERY CRAFT

PARIS, Sept. 4—(UP)—Soviet Russia has decided to send her Black Sea Fleet into the Mediterranean to join in the fight against "pirate" submarines that are attacking neutral-commerce, it was reported today in diplomatic quarters.

It was reported in addition that both Turkey and Greece had determined to join in British-French plans for joint anti-submarine warfare. This would give the British-French "pirate hunting" fleet not only the aid of Greek and Turkish warships but the much more valuable cooperation of Naval ports and coastal intelligence agents.

Turkey particularly was reported angry and prepared to aid in any way to combat the "pirates."

HERALD GOES TO PRESS AT 12 O'CLOCK MONDAY

Because Monday is Labor Day, a nationally-observed holiday, The Daily Herald will go to press at noon.

FAR EAST, SPAIN CRISES CAUSING MARKET SLUMPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4—(UP)—Stocks declined to within a fraction of the 1937 lows during the last week and rallied feebly.

Holiday influences, which depleted attendance in Wall street, coupled with fears over war situations in the Far East and Spain, accounted for the setback.

Only a small amount of offering was sufficient to bring wide setbacks, indicating the thinness of the market. It was equally thin on the upside as a temporary recovery on Friday indicated.

Meanwhile, business reports showed a fairly good level of operations. Steel production gained slightly. Automobile output declined, but this was in line with expectations as the change to new models continued. Car loadings and retail trade gained.

Reduction of rediscount rates by federal reserve banks went ahead until all banks except New York were on a 1 1/2 percent basis. New York's rate is 1 percent, the lowest for any central bank in the world. The reductions were made to aid business financing.

FAMED COWBOYS ARRIVE TO HONOR WILL ROGERS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 4—(UP)—World famous cowboys, rodeo stars, and Sioux Indians gathered today for the pageantry of the dedication of the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun memorial, which takes place Monday atop Cheyenne mountain.

The bronco riders, some 50 Indians, and the rope artists with whom Rogers was associated, will have a rodeo tomorrow at the Broadmoor Polo grounds as a forerunner to the dedication.

STATE TO BEGIN DRIVE AGAINST TAX CHISELERS

More Than 250 Arrests in Last Month Reported By Commission

Collections Over Four Millions Behind

COLUMBUS, Sept. 4 — (UP) — The state tax commission, disturbed by dwindling sales tax collections, today announced a "permanent" relentless drive against "chiseling" vendors.

More than 250 arrests have been made in the last 30 days, Joel E. Williams, chief of the sales tax section revealed — an increase of more than 50 per cent over the previous month period.

Announcement of the drive followed a statement by State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley that receipts throughout the state and particularly in certain rural areas had fallen far short of the anticipated yield.

Williams said, however, the drive was not confined to any particular areas but rather on a state-wide scale. He said examiners, in the commission's 17 districts had been instructed to "clamp down."

Examiners Rotated

He said the commission had recently inaugurated the practice of rotating examiners so vendors could not recognize them so easily.

The drive, Williams revealed, began when the commission became concerned over falling receipts.

The most recent report on sales of tax stamps issued by the treasurer's office showed that collections for 1937, up to Aug. 21, were about $4,500,000 behind a similar period in 1936.

It was pointed out, however, that the exemption of food purchased for use off the premises probably resulted in a large part of this decrease.

Also contributing to the slump in collections, Williams said, was the recent series of strikes and the usual seasonal business let-down.

Nevertheless, he said the commission anticipates a large increase in collections in the near future when the full force of the drive is felt.

WORD BLINDNESS AFFLICTS PUPIL IN MINNEAPOLIS

HUTCHINSON, Minn. (UP) — Twelve-year-old Earl Hemple is "word blind" but he is getting ready for some real work in the fifth grade of Minneapolis public schools.

In his spare time he has learned four years of reading.

Bryng Bryngelson, head of the University of Minnesota's speech clinic in Minneapolis, says gradually he is curing the boy of a rare ailment. In a short treatment period this summer the clinic made good progress.

Earl's ailment prevents him from connecting meaning and sound with written words. He could write words shown him, but he could not pronounce them. He could not write any word spoken to him, although he understood it perfectly. He scored first grade or below on tests of word recognition and discrimination, sound blending, spelling and oral reading.

The speech clinic's problem, Dr. Bryngelson explained, was to build associations for the boy between words and meaningful sounds.

MAGICIAN FAILS, IS BURIED ALIVE WITH PATIENT

HYDERABAD, India (UP)—A magician named Butchia was buried alive with the corpse of a man he had failed to cure near Warangal, central India.

This was revealed when five other men were sentenced to transportation for life for the murder of the magician.

The prosecution stated that Butchia was called in to cure a sick man, and as the man's condition became worse instead of better, the accused tied the magician to a stake and beat him, threatening him with death if he failed to cure their friend.

The sick man died, and Butchia was tied behind the bier, dragged to the burial ground and buried alive with the corpse.

DEPUTY SHERIFF, POLICEMAN DIE IN RESORT DUEL

Holdup Suspect Shot Down After Officers Trap Men In Cabin

ry Chapman of Chicago fought for his life in a hospital today. He was wounded three times in the left shoulder. Hospital attendants said today he had a fair chance of surviving.

Patrolman Martin Donnelly, 42, who lost a finger and was shot in the left shoulder, was in good condition today. His wounds were not serious.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Edward Furry, 38; Patrolman Martin Randolph, 45; and a man identified as Robert Cornette of Hamilton were killed. Cornette first was identified as William Y. Cornette of Portsmouth, but police said the latter was his brother, who has a good reputation.

Indian Lake Watched
Officers concentrated their watch today in the vicinity of Indian lake. They received one report that the fugitives had been seen near North Lewisburg. They also chased one suspected automobile from Springfield to Lawrenceville, where they lost track of it.

Two airplanes from Wright field, Dayton, were unsuccessful in an attempt to spot the fleeing robbers.

Patrolman Donnelly told the story of the gun battle at the lake. "A car was parked behind the cottage," he said. "We heard a lock click on the inside. We knocked on the back door but all was quiet. We called for them to come out but there was not a sound."

"Eddie Furry went to his car and got some tools and we both pried up the window in a front room. I climbed in first and Eddie came right after me. From there we went into a west room and then to a north bedroom."

"Eddie was in the lead and just as he stepped in toward the bedroom door a red headed man ran into the kitchen and squatted down by a closet with a gun in his hand. Eddie shot a couple of times, then I stepped up and shot. Eddie stepped back into the bedroom."

"Just as Eddie backed into the bedroom, fire came from the bedroom closet. They never gave Eddie a chance. He must have been shot in the back."

"I went out the back door and went up to a window and shot toward the closet. I was shot in the shoulder. I don't know how Randolph got shot, but it must have been after one of the bandits came out the front door."

City Prosecutor Abe Gardner said he obtained from the wounded bandit a brief confession that the four held up Robert Smith, son of John Smith, a restaurant owner, and fled to the cottage. Smith had just withdrawn the money from a bank to use in cashing checks of factory workers near the restaurant.

Robert Rose Cornette also was known as H. C. Smith and B. R. Brown. He was received at Ohio penitentiary June 23, 1925, from Washington county on a charge of killing a Marietta policeman. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was transferred to London prison farm May 7, 1930. He was given an imminent danger of death release from prison on June 10, 1936.

COURT'S ORDER DELAYS SALE OF ACRES OF CORN

An injunction restraining sale of corn scheduled for Saturday afternoon was allowed in common pleas Friday on request of Lawrence and Ella N. Hosler, of Columbus, against Worley See, Harry E. Rector, constable of Deercreek township, and Frank Maley, justice of peace. The plaintiffs say Mr. See filed an action in the justice of peace court, obtained judgment and an execution was issued. They contend that no service of summons had been made. The action says the constable levied on the undivided one-half interest in 130 acres of corn in Jackson township and the sale was arranged.

RUSSIANS SHIP SHEEP BY PLANE OVER WASTELAND

ASKHAHAD, Turko-Soviet — (UP)—Heavy airplanes of the Civil Aviation of the Turkmenian Republic have started the transportation across the Kara Kum desert of 10,000 sheep from state farms to collective farmers of the Tashauz area. The transportation of sheep by air is here considerably cheaper and more convenient than by land; the latter way requires considerable time and great expenditures on feeding and protection of sheep and does not insure against any loss on the way. Airplanes deliver sheep without any losses from Ashkhabad to Tashauz—a distance of 550 kilometers—in 2½ to 3 hours.

PIGEON SERVICE OF EARLY DAYS FINALLY ENDED

GRAFTON, Australia (UP) — Native oats have just killed the last pigeon of what was probably the most unique pigeon carrier service in the world.

The service was started on the north coast of Australia by the Mulhurn brothers, saw millers of Lowanna, at a time when neither postal, telephone or telegraph service existed. They spent years in training the pigeons to fly over the mountainous, hawk-infested country and during the years the service was in effect only one pigeon ever failed to check in.

The service was maintained especially between one sawmill at Lowanna and another at Mt. Hyland, 60 miles away.

The birds carried messages in aluminum containers more than 60 miles in 45 minutes, their arrival in the lot being signalled by the falling of a shutter when they alighted on the landing stage.

After years of successful operation, however, some native oats got into the pigeons' quarters and the entire service was wiped out over night.

'PURGE' CONTINUES
MOSCOW, Sept. 4 — (UP) — The Soviet purge of the Communist party continued relentlessly today with the announcement that 36 more departmental leaders had been involved in "counter-revolutionary" activities against the government.

MILITARY FUEL WORRIES NAZIS

BERLIN, Aug. 4 (UP)—The oil fields of Russia and the United States are regarded here as one of the decisive factors of the next major war. German military observers and economic experts are worried about the consequences of the great mechanization of modern armies, each of which in war time would rapidly consume more than the normal world production of gasoline and oil. It is estimated that several of the leading nations in wartime, would run short of mobile power within several weeks. Even Russia and the United States, overflowing with the lifeblood of modern fighting forces, could not carry on with normal production during wartime for longer than six months, it is argued, for today's armies, navies and air forces have voracious appetites. Production of synthetic gasoline and oil is not considered sufficient to meet the need which would arise. Writing in the leading German economic magazine, the "German Economist," Dr. F. Fridenburg summarizes the situation as follows:

1. Oil needs of every great military power in case of war will reach 12,000,000 to 20,000,000 tons annually, or several times that of peace production.

2. Self-supply is possible only for the United States and Russia, and even for those two, in view of domestic requirements and enormous transportation distances involved in case of war, difficulties are certain.

3. For other countries, requirements in the given amounts cannot be fulfilled even with free unhindered imports.

Episcopal Young People To Discuss Today's Tasks

Young people, attending the general convention of the Episcopal Church, which opens in Cincinnati, Oct. 6, will have an opportunity to discuss the problems they are facing today.

Miss Hilda Shaul, adviser in education, Diocese of Southern Ohio, is in charge of arrangements for the young people's program the week-end of Oct. 8, 9, and 10.

"What are the problems young people are facing today, and what resources are available to them as Christians in meeting these problems?" This question has been asked many groups.

Returns from some 50 groups of young people in four dioceses indicate that the outstanding problems of Episcopal Church young people are: "How does one select a vocation?" "What happens at the Holy Communion?" "How does one choose one's friends?" "When does a young person become independent of his family?" "How does one know that the Episcopal Church and Christianity are right?" It is questions such as these which will be discussed at the Week-end for Young People at General Convention.

The theme will be "Thy Will Be Done." Leaders who have consented to participate include Bishop William Scarlett of Missouri, Bishop Clinton S. Quin of Texas, Miss Mary Klemm, Mrs. Stephen K. Mahon, and the Rev. Joseph F. Fletcher.

Many young people themselves, in addition to carrying out program plans, will take part in the platform discussions.

Three services and a banquet will be held, while opportunity will be given to visit the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies; to hear Bishop V. S. Azariah of Dornakal, India; and to attend the great drama of missions, "The Glory of the Light." The cost per night will be $1.50; the banquet $3.75. Registrations must be in before October 1st. Further information may be obtained from Miss Hilda Shaul, 223 West 7th Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

God Requires Social Justice

God laid the foundation for social justice under the laws of Moses by demanding of the people holiness patterned after himself. "Ye shall be holy for I Jehovah your God am holy." Such was the divine injunction.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Leviticus 19:1-18, 32-37.

Poor relief was to be administered by all the people sharing with their needy neighbors: "Thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field. . . Thou shalt leave them for the poor and for the sojourner."

"Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbor, nor rob him," God said, "Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment, in measure, or of weight or of quantity." Justice in wages and treatment of workers was required by God.

Ashville Traveler Adds Many Strange Elephants

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Maxene Canter, who collects miniature toy elephants as a hobby, has hundreds of them now from nearly every point of the globe. She recently added many to her collection while on her ten-day trip through the South with her brother, Wade, and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hill and their daughter, Grace.

Of course, she knows, the Southland in this U. S. A. is not an elephant habitat. The donkeys are to be preferred there. She got quite a few anyway, when once she made them understand that collecting these animal toys had nothing at all to do with politics.

This was Maxene's first trip to the South. The party was in ten states and saw much that interested her, razor-back hogs and colored people by the millions. Sometime, when that "fatal day" comes, if she can persuade him to go, we feel sure she would like to make the trip again for several weeks, but not when it is so hot.

The Hills were attending the National Letter Carriers convention at New Orleans.

Personal Notes

Malburn Scott, quite sick for several weeks, is able to be up and about the home again. . . . William Abbott for several years truck gardening here, supplying many of the village families with the finest of vegetables and sweet corn, reached his 82nd birthday Wednesday. He is remarkably well preserved for one of his years and goes about his work most every day. . . . Joseph Roof, quite poorly for the last week or more, is reported some improved. He was able to be out of bed to sit in a chair for a short time yesterday. . . . The Gloyd Brothers are painting the Knights of Pythias building occupied by the Kroger store. . . . Dallas and Mrs. Griffith who spent a few days at the home of their son, Wilbur Griffith, Walnut township, have returned home. . . . Wesley Neff, employed in Columbus, spent a few days here as a part of his vacation. . . . Roger Bell and wife of Milwaukee, Wis., arrived here this morning for a short visit with mother, brothers and the home people. This is his old home town. Says he is serving an apprenticeship as a steam fitter. "Steam fitters are always in demand at remunerative wages," he said.

Show Promoted

Miss Minnell, connected with the "See yourself in the movies" show, is now here assisting in preparing for what she says is to be two nights of real fun, Friday and Saturday evenings, September 16 and 17. The show is given for the benefit of the Community Club, which means for charity. The club funds always go for worthy causes. . . . Mrs. Clarence Squire has returned home from New York City where she was called several weeks ago by her son Emerson Squire, who was waylaid by a footpad and seriously injured. Young Squire is able to be about again but not back to normal yet. . . . The Helping Hand society of S. Bloomfield is giving a fried chicken (chicken well done) supper at its hall, which has been redecorated like a million, on Monday evening, the 6th, serving to begin at 5:30. . . . Mrs. Ada Rudy has returned to Ashville after spending some time at Zanesville with relatives.

ATLANTA

Miss Helen Hatfield entertained a group of friends at a delightful party at her home on Tuesday evening. Following of contests and games a delicious dessert course was served to Misses Bertha Duval, Mary Anise Bush, Martha Wright, Addie Ruth Skinner, Martha Hyer, Mary Louise Skinner and Eugene Bush, Dudley Steele, Sam Athey, William Persinger, Dan Steele, Herbert Lamb, and Lawrence Hunter.

STRATEGY IN CHINA

THE war strategy in the Far East is as puzzling as the military operations are shocking.

So far, Shanghai, the great commercial port with populous international settlements and vast British interests, has been the center of world attention. Enormous destruction has occurred, a great battle has been waged by land, water and air, many thousands of fighters and civilians have been killed, and 2,000,000 Chinese are said to have fled from their homes.

Yet expert observers say this engagement is strategically unimportant. The real fighting, they maintain, will be in northeastern China, the country's richest industrial area, whose natural wealth of coal, iron, and so on are coveted by Japan. It is there that both governments are concentrating most of their troops. The Japanese fighting at Shanghai has been done mainly by warships, airmen and marines. And the Chinese command, while rushing large bodies of infantry there, has sent little artillery. China's big guns, too, are in the north.

Obviously it would make a wonderful addition to Japan's growing empire if she could add the "five northern provinces" centering at Peiping and making a solid block of territory with Manchukuo and Korea. That would give Japan a continental empire big and rich enough to keep her consolidating and developing it for many years.

But attention naturally turns back to the curious case of Shanghai. There are suggestions that this amazing assault was launched rather irresponsibly by the naval group, which is jealous of the military group. If there is really such a lack of unity in the war program now, what may happen later on, in Tokyo, if the Chinese continue strengthening their resistance north and south?

GARNER'S RISE

ONE of the amazing developments of the last few months is the rise of John Nance Garner to popularity as presidential timber for 1940. The Gallup Poll need not be taken too seriously as actually indicating what the public will think two years from now. Both in April and in August, Postmaster General James M. Farley leads the list of candidates proposed by the people in case Roosevelt is out of the running. When the time actually comes, it is not at all likely that Farley will stand a chance. But it is interesting that Garner has moved from fifth place, behind Farley, Earle, Murphy and McNutt, into the position immediately behind Farley, and that Alben

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

F. D.'S MOTHER CAN'T BE DIVERTED

WASHINGTON—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, does not often interest herself in her son's problems of state, but on those few occasions when she does, she is relentlessly persistent about it.

While the President was posing for photographs, before she left for Europe, his mother came in and remarked to Marvin McIntyre, his secretary:

"Mr. McIntyre, have you answered that letter to Mr. Satterlee yet?"

And then without waiting for an answer, she continued:

"You know it's a very important letter. It's much more important than most of these other letters you answer, and I don't want you to forget it. I want you to tell Mr. Satterlee how much Franklin appreciated his letter."

Then, turning to Miss Marguerite Le Hand, the President's private secretary, she continued:

"You'll see that it's answered, won't you, Missy?"

At this point McIntyre sought to divert Mrs. Roosevelt's attention by having her peek through a camera lens to see how her son looked in the picture for which he was posing. However, she was not to be diverted. She took one look, then left the room saying:

"Now don't forget that letter to Mr. Satterlee."

CAMERA ATTACK

Tall, dignified Robert W. Bingham, U. S. Ambassador to London, is a favorite of cameramen. The minute they spot him they begin clamoring for shots.

When he called on Secretary Hull the other day, the photographers besieged him in full force. Good-naturedly the Ambassador submitted to their insatiable demands. After snapping him repeatedly with his hat and cane, they asked him to place his hand on the door knob of Hull's private office. Bingham obliged and the photographers popped away.

"Now, Mr. Ambassador," one of them cried, "please open the door just a little, as if you were entering. We want to get an action picture."

Again Bingham obliged. As he opened the door a secret buzzer automatically sounded on the desk of Hull's Negro messenger. But the messenger did not move.

"Tenille," Hull was heard to say, "why don't you answer that buzzer and see who is out there?"

"Yes, sir, Mr. Secretary," the messenger replied, "but I know who is out there. It is Ambassador Bingham being attacked by them cameramen."

Barkley of Kentucky, not mentioned at all in April, now has fourth place.

What the poll probably proves is that limelight helps. People vote for the man who gets his name on the front pages of the most papers. But Garner, it must be admitted, took hold of his job with force and decision in the late weeks of the Congressional session. Perhaps that is why the limelight has been shining so brightly upon him. Usually the Vice Presidency is in shadow.

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up with a snuffle, having contracted the cold I had braved by spending the night under a fan in a vain effort to escape the heat. Soon belowstairs and, because of the malady, unable to find flavor in the java. When the dog insisted on a romp did take it outside, exercising to the extent of clapping my hands, which sent the pooch galloping in great ear-flopping circles. Cranked the wagon and took off for the post, finding a great bundle of mail, but little of importance. At the plant a little sand in the gears, but refused to become excited, knowing full well that nothing runs perfectly in such weather as this.

At the coffee club did meet Fred Wittich, who has a trailer parked along Scippo and used as a summer home. "Under blankets every night," he declared. Forced to explain that my snuff was not of disbelief, but due to a cold caused by four of my heavy covers sliding off the bed last night. Fred drank his coffee in silence, paid for his and mine, and then asked me to join him on a Canadian fishing trip later this month. Forced to refuse, which was the only reason I did. Chatted with Ed Mason, whose store basement is the coolest place in the ville. Dropped in for a visit with Charlie Mack and passed the time of day with George Fitzpatrick, who has just installed an expensive piece of modern equipment in his printery. Bowed in fine friendliness to Dr. Courtright and Meeker Terwilliger, the barrister.

Met Millard Goode and John Griffith, two ambitious youngsters, who soon take off for college. Both intend working their way through school, a difficult task these times, but one to which they are equal. If they find time they will try out for the football teams, but football is secondary with them although both are outstanding athletes. Such youngsters as these deserve the well wishes of everyone in the ville.

Went with Mack Parrett to inspect his model home and found a house living up to its reputation. Mack has done a fine job there, showing us many innovations in construction. A trip through that house is worth the time of anyone. The scrivener was particularly impressed by the large basement with plenty of room for a workshop and game room, and by the cooling system. An orchid to Mack, and may he sell the house at once and start another. We need many new houses in the ville.

Met Frank Fischer, the educator, and being in somewhat of a dark mood did ask him whether he had a pet peevish. "Come with me and I will show you a dozen sources of personal irritation," he said. I did and was shown automobile after automobile parked at improper angles, several of them occupying twice their allotted space because wheels crossed the parking lines.

Received a note from the Rev. L. C. Sherburne, now on vacation. "Had a nice trip to Connecticut," he wrote. "The route over the Roosevelt Trail and Bear Mountain bridge was wonderful for scenic beauty."

Clarence Wolf should do something about it, and probably will as soon as he learns that Ham Rogers, who accompanied him on that recent far northern fishing trip, is showing a photograph of Clarence sitting in a boat in the middle of a beautiful lake and eating a lunch of sardine sandwiches.

DIET AND HEALTH

Causes of Eye-Strain in School Youngsters

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
GOOD VISION does not necessarily mean healthy eyes. This is true in childhood. In middle age the converse may be said to be true—poor vision, at least for reading, goes with perfectly normal eyes.

The child in school is asked to read a chart and he reads the 20-20 line, which is the accepted standard for normal vision. Yet he may have to strain his eyes to achieve this normal vision.

Sooner or later with the continual strain of achieving normal vision in school, he will begin to have symptoms—of headaches, or nervousness, or inattention.

The three optical faults which induce eyestrain are far-sightedness, near-sightedness and astigmatism.

Far-sightedness does not mean good vision in the distance. The eyes have to strain even when looking at a distance. Normal eyes focus distant objects with complete relaxation. Only when doing close work do they have to focus; but focusing in a normal eye is not the same as strain.

In far-sighted eyes the image falls too far back even when the eyes are looking at a distance, and the retina does not receive a clear-cut image until the focusing muscle starts working and brings the image upon the retina. That means the focusing muscle never gets a rest.

Result Is Strain
This results in constant strain

and leads to nervous symptoms of that strain. Such a child was one aged eight who at home was disobedient, irritable and nervous.

At school he was indifferent to his work, backward, and his teacher called him lazy. No one for a while suspected his eyes might be the cause of the trouble, because he could always read the smallest line on the test chart, until finally one doctor suggested a "thorough" examination. This means a complete check of the physical health of the eyes and a determination of the total optical error.

These far-sighted children have just such a strain upon the focusing muscle that it is hypertrophied and much stronger than normal, so it is generally agreed among competent oculists that it must be put at rest with medicine before the exact amount of optical error can be measured.

One of the best text books on the eye says, "In every case of hyperopia (far-sightedness) occurring in children and young adults, the accommodation should be paralyzed and the total error estimated so as to serve as a prescription for glasses."

When this was done to the child whose case we have recounted, and proper glasses prescribed for him, his improvement was remarkable. He wasn't really lazy or indifferent, but you can't expect a young fellow to be full of pep when some of his muscles are always on a strain.

CHAPTER 41
"COME IN, please," Carla Mentone's voice that was throaty, yet clear as a bell, called out in response to the knock on her bedroom door.

Mari pushed the knob with her knee and kicked it open; she had brought up Carla's breakfast tray herself.

Carla said, "You shouldn't do this, really."

Mari smiled and put the tray on a table. "I've brought mine, too," she said. "I want to talk to you before the rest of my guests find us."

"I'm Carla Mentone. I was too upset last night to introduce myself properly."

Mari said she knew. "I'm Mari Bara."

"I know." They looked at each other and both burst out laughing. "It was your dress . . ."

"And it was your beauty . . ."

Mari said.

Carla sipped her fruit juice silently for a few minutes. Then she said:

"It was awfully decent and brave of you. Why did you do it?"

"It was neither," Mari denied. "What would you have done when you saw a woman pointing a gun?"

"Fainted, probably," the actress said. "But I wasn't thinking of that. I'm thinking about your bringing me back here, saying that I have been your guest. Not many women would do a thing like that."

Mari said she thought the coffee was too strong, she'd send for some hot milk—

"I'd rather talk to you," her guest said as she settled back in her pillows. "Did you know about it? I mean Angie and all that?"

Mari nodded. "Naturally I had heard something but it is of no consequence. Please don't feel that you owe me any explanations."

"But I do, my dear, you've not only saved my life which is of little consequence, but you've saved my reputation! As a matter of fact, things are not at all what they seem. Angie is a poor old thing who never has much fun. I've been sorry for him and . . . well, that's the usually the way all the rumors begin. I'm always being sorry for people because I remember when no one was sorry for me. I think, perhaps, you are the first woman who has been kind to me."

Mari's eyes widened.

"That's true. And very surprising. I know who you are and what you've done and are doing. I know what it means to be a woman in your prominent position," Carla continued. "You have no privacy, the world knows everything about you, your pursuits, your friends. And you have to be very careful to be always circumspect. Yet, last night, you risked much for me. I wish I knew why."

"I think I can tell you. I have a deep-rooted feeling that women get the short end of any bargain, so I . . . well, I act on sympathies first and put away thinking until after."

Carla Mentone was genuinely surprised. "My dear, you don't really? You're a woman of the world, not a Washington debutante! Wherever did you get that idea?"

Mari didn't know where she'd got it.

"But surely you know that women are more clever than men? Surely, with your looks and brains and success, you've never had the short end of a bargain?"

Hastily Mari said, "Of course not."

"Well, then, if a woman can have anything, or any man she wants, what is the short end?"

Mari went to the window and stared out at the waving mass of azure. The film in her eyes blurred the scene.

"I never got the man I wanted and I've never wanted anything else."

Carla asked reasonably, "Did you go after him?"

"No, I ran away from him," Mari answered. She managed to smile.

"I can't believe it! How silly! Why don't you go back and get him?"

Mari shook her head. "Look here, I didn't come up this morning to cry on your shoulder. I have plans to discuss. Would you like to be my guest?"

"Like to? Heavens, child, I've got to be or to be torn to threads in the newspapers. I can't afford that now because I'm opening in a new play in six weeks. Kim Charing has done a beautiful job of a play in which I'm opening in New York. It's going to be my biggest triumph on the other side. Miller is producing it. You know what that means."

Mari knew what it meant. Orchids and emine and tails, and Park avenue fighting for tickets. A first night of the first order. "Then, we'd better do it up properly. I'm giving a luncheon for you at 2. I've invited dozens of people. Tonight Reggie Venable is having 10 to dinner to meet you at the hotel and we'll go on to the Casino."

"Good girl!" Carla's expressive hand went out to Mari in a firm clasp. "I hope no one will ever have to cover you up, Mari Bara, but if it's ever necessary, I hope it will be an experience as rich for your rescuer as this is to me."

"Don't mention it, please."

"I want to know a lot about you. Are the rumors true that you were a debutante who came over . . . ?"

Mari laughed loud and long. "Not a bit! I was born in Brooklyn. My mother died when I was a baby and my father when I was 16. I went to an art school in New York and worked for a lithographing company."

"But clothes! How did you get into that? And what a gift you have!"

"Oh, I always wanted to design. In New York I worked as an apprentice at Tony Castle's . . ."

"Tony? Really? Isn't he a darling?"

Mari's heart thudded against her ribs. She heard ringing in her ears as her pulse accelerated. She felt a quick excitement in the presence of someone who had known Tony.

In all these years she had not met one person to whom she had mentioned his name. And Carla knew him!

"Yes . . . he . . . he was very nice," she said.

"I haven't seen Tony for years. I haven't been in America for three years. The last time I saw him was at Liane Weston's in Greenwich."

"The years had made no difference; when Mari heard the actress' name, it fell heavily into her heart."

"Did you know her?" Carla asked conversationally.

"I've only seen her," Mari said. "She was married a year or so ago. Liane was Tony's best friend when Eve Merriam jilted him. There was a little beast! Tony turned woman-hater after that experience."

Liane is married! Mari could think only of that. Tony was still free. Liane was only his "best friend." Who was Eve Merriam? Mari didn't hear what Carla was saying until the other girl repeated:

"Mari-Bara, will you do my play for me? I'll want the most revealing things ever seen on the New York stage! There'll be five costumes. And I'll see that everybody in America knows who did them."

Poems That Live

UNDER THE LEAVES

Of have I walked these woodland paths,
Without the blessed foreknowing
That underneath the withered leaves
The fairest buds were growing.

Today the south-wind sweeps away
The types of autumn's splendor,
And shows the sweet arbutus flowers,
Spring's children, pure and tender.

O prophet-flowers!—with lips of bloom,
Outliving in your beauty
The pearly tints of ocean shells,
Ye teach me faith and duty!

Walk life's dark ways, ye seem to say,
With love's divine foreknowing
That where man sees but withered leaves,
God sees sweet flowers growing.
—Albert Laighton.

THE MORNING-GLORY

Was it worth while to paint so fair
Thy every leaf—to vein with faulstless art
Each petal, taking the boon light
and air
Of summer so to heart?

To bring thy beauty unto perfect flower,
Vanish away, beyond recovery's
or a smile.
Then, like a passing fragrance
power—
Was it, frail bloom, with while?

Thy silence answers: "Life was mine!
And I, who pass without regret
or grief,
Have cared the more to make my moment fine,
Because it was so brief.

"In its first radiance I have seen
The sun!—why tarry then till comes the night?
I go my way, content that I have been Part of the morning light!"
—Florence Earle Coates

ROSE-MARIE OF THE ANGELS
Little Sister Rose-Marie,
Will thy voice as bird-note clear
Lift and ripple over Heaven
As its mortal sound is given,
Swift bird-voice, so young and clear?

How God will be glad of thee,
Little Sister Rose-Marie!

WRONG SPORT, PARSON!

A newly rich man was a poor golfer and very ignorant, as well. One day he was playing a round with a bishop and had a real off-day. After every fizzle he would indulge in a hearty burst of profanity. The bishop, shocked, admonished him. "If you don't respect me, sir, you should at least respect the cloth."

"Cloth, nothing!" snarled the other "we ain't playing billiards!"

A Truly Practical Sermon

A clergyman, in the course of his sermon, illustrated his point by saying, "You know you plant roses and geraniums in the sunshine, but if you want your fuchsias to grow you must keep them in the shade."

After the service a woman came up to him, her face beaming with pleasure.

"Oh, I'm so grateful for that sermon!" she said, clasping his hand and shaking it warmly. His heart glowed, but only for a moment.

Many at Piano Recital of Richard Valentine

Mrs. R. S. Hosler Aids in Friday Program at Schleyer Home

Large vases of garden flowers decorated the rooms Friday evening when Miss Anna M. Schleyer presented in recital Richard Valentine, pianist, assisted by Mrs. Ralph S. Hosler, soprano. About 50 guests attended.

Mr. Valentine presented a splendidly balanced program in a pleasing manner, showing much intelligence in the matter of interpretation and a substantial technical background. His ensemble work with Miss Schleyer at the second piano was especially good, his tonal quality phrasing and expression being almost identical with Miss Schleyer's.

"The Spanish Dance", by Granados was well done, setting forth much intelligence in contrast between the different movements. With the fine musical background Mr. Valentine has attained during his term of tutelage with Miss Schleyer, his four-year course at Capital University which he will begin September 7 will be a continuance of a solid musical education.

A gratifying part of the program was the group of songs offered by Mrs. Ralph S. Hosler, of Ashville. Mrs. Hosler has a lovely soprano voice which she uses to good advantage, and the listener gets a splendid conception of both the poetic and melodic side of her songs. The group which she offered presented a very happy contrast to the rest of the program. Her numbers included "Bird Songs at Eventide", by Brahe, "Do You Know My Garden?", and "Bless This House", by Eric Coates.

Mr. Valentine's program included the following numbers:

Prelude, Op. 28, No. 1... Chopin
Prelude, Op. 28, No. 20... Chopin
Valse, D flat... Chopin
Duo-Rondo, Op. 51, No. 1... Beethoven
Prelude, C sharp minor... Rachmanninoff
Menuetto... Schubert
Duo-Air... Bach
Bourree, B minor... Bach
Spanish Dance... Granados
Duo-Deep River... Negro Melody
Duo-Country Gardens... Grainger

CLOTHES FOR SCHOOLGIRL SMART, PRACTICAL

Nation's Style Experts and Stores Feature Stunning Dresses, Colorful Accessories for Classes, "Dates"

By LISBETH

RIGHT NOW everyone is concerned about the school and college girl. She is the Big Worry. She must be gotten ready for school no matter what other important matters are on hand.

Shop windows are full of suggestions for her, whole store departments cater to her, newspaper ads make suggestions—so do we stylists—so really she should be outfitted very nicely indeed, and the family be left to attend to other matters.

Illustrating this little yarn is a picture of a Hollywood high school girl who is said to be hailed by critics as the new "It girl of pictures"—the 1937 Clara Bow. She is wearing an interesting costume that might give a college or high school girl a suggestion—or her mother, anyway.

The skirt is tweed and gored. It might be almost any good woolen material. Its simplicity is its smartness. A plaid silk blouse is youthful and becoming, and over that is worn a regular "weskit" of dark silk. It is sort of a jumper blouse effect—if you know what I mean.

Everything Featured

Hats, hosiery, lingerie, pajamas, dresses, some of them called "date" dresses, coats and whatnots are all especially highlighted for the college girl. Velvet in one or two-piece stylings are shown for these young women and make smart and practical dresses for class, campus and "date" wear.

They usually are seen in the new pencil silhouette and with bright touches as in brass buttons, and favorite colors are green, wine and brown.

is getting, the new "chubby" little jackets are very youthful and delightful for her. Another good bet for her is the combination of leather with fabric—a three-piece evening was arranged by Miss Charlotte Bell. Jane Bell opened the program with two piano solos, and she was followed by Mrs. Cliff Miller, who sang a group of songs accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harriet Henness. Wahnta Barnhart and Ruby Chalfin each played one accordion number.

A buffet lunch was served during the social hour from an attractively arranged table having a centerpiece of asters interspersed with slender burning tapers in a crystal bowl, and flanked with tall green candles in matching holders.

The members of the hostess committee were Mrs. F. E. Heraldson, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. Stanley Peters, Mrs. Hott, Mrs. H. J. Blue, Miss Bell, Mrs. Earl Figgatt, Mrs. Robert Denman, and Mrs. Beatrice Herkless.

GAYNOR-MONTGOMERY
Janet Gaynor makes her Radio Theatre debut on Monday night, Sept. 13, in a role opposite Robert Montgomery in "A Star Is Born," an emotional and moving behind-the-scenes drama of Hollywood.

The appearance of Miss Gaynor and Robert Montgomery as principals in the play marks the return of the Radio Theatre to the air after an absence of nine weeks. Cecil B. DeMille returns as producer and the 60-minute dramatic program will be heard, as before, on the Columbia network at 8:00 P. M. (EST).

Although Miss Gaynor has never been interviewed on the air nor played in a full-length radio drama, Robert Montgomery will feel perfectly at home at a CBS microphone. "A Star Is Born" will be his fourth Radio Theatre vehicle, the second under DeMille direction.

JEWISH NEW YEAR
The coming Jewish High Holidays will be observed by WLW in two broadcasts: Rosh Hashana the morning of Monday, Sept. 6 from 8:15 to 8:45 EST, and Yom Kippur, Tuesday evening, Sept. 15, 5:00-5:30 EST.

The choir which will appear for these two programs may be heard every Saturday morning in the Synagogue of the Air at 9:45 a. m. EST. It is under the direction of Miss Leah Fred, who is widely known in radio and Temple circles. Alfred M. Chen, International President of B'Nai B'rith, will read the prayers in the New Years service.

In the Rosh Hoshana service for Sept. 6, also will be heard the shofar calls, the traditional blasts on the ram's horn, which from remote antiquity have summoned Israel to the New Year. The shofar will be blown by Gordon Weil.

The ancient Kol Nidre melody will take its traditional place in the Yom Kippur, or Eve of Atonement service.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Breakfast Dishes Men Like
Do you serve the same breakfast day in and day out? Just because your husband and the men in your family have accepted fruit, toast and coffee—with an egg and breakfast cereal for occasional variety that does not mean they have no desire for any other breakfast dishes. So vary the program and serve a hearty meal, especially on Sunday, suggests Byron MacFadyen, in Good Housekeeping.

He suggests you go the limit and serve the meal in courses. If you start with fruit juice, be sure to have it well chilled. Then don't forget that cereal belongs in breakfasts of this sort. A crisp, ready-to-eat cereal or one of those delicious piping hot kinds is always welcome served with rich milk or cream. Have you ever eaten a ready-to-eat cereal with a baked apple or applesauce? If you haven't—you've a treat in store. Try it with lots of top milk or cream, suggests Mr. MacFadyen. Don't overlook jellies and jams. They are just as important in a course breakfast as salted nuts, olives and celery are in a course dinner. Although one kind of jelly jam will do, there's more appeal in serving three or four, such as marmalade, strawberry jam and apple jelly. Then plan your main course dish. For instance, something new and extra nice is creamed beef with baked tomato slices. Or beef kidney stew. Serve with hot cereal and bananas, plenty of muffins and good coffee—and you have a grand breakfast.

Keeping Apples
To be sure your basket of apples will keep, rub them over with a little glycerine. The glycerine will wash off readily when you want to use the apples, and that isn't really necessary, because the glycerine, besides being tasteless and odorless, is entirely pure and wholesome.

England never knows what to do with her prime ministers. Russia puts hers in jail.

MINNEAPOLIS ON TOP

Charlie Wagner Scores His Nineteenth Victory

BY UNITED PRESS
Columbus pulled away from the rest of the pack by sweeping a twin bill from Louisville and stood two full games ahead of the second place Minneapolis club today.

The Red Birds relied on Lanier to score their first victory and the youngster scored a 5 to 0 shut-out, allowing only five singles. The second game was a 5 to 2 triumph for the ace Columbus hurler McGhee, who also allowed but five hits.

Minneapolis moved into second place ahead of Toledo, by besting Milwaukee, 8 to 3. Wagner, the winning hurler, chalked up his 19th victory of the season.

Toledo ran into some unexpected opposition at the hands of Indianapolis, and the Indians shoved the Mud Hens back by winning a double header, 10 to 6, and 10 to 8.

A nine run rally in the second inning of the first tilt allowed the winners to coast.

Al Piechota, new Kansas City pitcher, won his second game since donning a blue uniform beating St. Paul by the shut-out route, 8 to 0. His good work was of no avail, however, since the Saints came back to batter a pair of Blue pitchers in the second game, winning 10 to 1, and making the night's work all even. Art Herring worked this game for St. Paul and was rarely in difficulty.

Speedster Here

HERE IS CAPT. G. E. T. EYSTON, BRITISH AUTOMOBILE RACER, ARRIVING IN NEW YORK FROM ENGLAND.

Eyston plans to go to the Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, where he will attempt to shatter the world's automobile record of 301.129 miles per hour, held by Sir Malcolm Campbell.

DUCKY MEDWICK STILL HAS EDGE OVER NATIONALS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 — (UP) — Joe Medwick, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, and Charlie Gehring, Detroit, second baseman, still set the pace in the major league batting races, according to the averages released today and including games of Thursday, Sept. 2.

Medwick added .02 points to his average for .392, giving him a 17-point lead over Paul Warner, Pittsburgh, who slumped 12 points to .375.

Gehring's average shrank from .387 to .384, and he lost seven points to his nearest rival, Lou Gehrig, Yankees, who increased his mark from .364 to .368.

Charlie Root, Cubs, led National league pitchers with 12 victories and four defeats. Johnny Allen, Cleveland, grabbed the American league lead with eight victories and no defeats.

FREE BIDS STRONG

IF THE OPPONENT to the left of the original bidder passes, it is up to his partner to strain every effort to keep the bidding open to provide for the possibility that the opener may have a lot of surplus values. If, however, the intervening opponent injects a bid, he has done the work of keeping the bidding open and there is consequently no necessity for the opener's partner to break in unless he has a good hand to show. Hence a bid over a hostile overcall shows substantial power. Making such a bid without that strength can cause all kinds of trouble.

South, who felt with his partner's free overcall on the first round, the support rebid by West and that support shown by his partner that North was very short in that suit, and as he held good support for spades, he would take his partner's game. East doubled this when it came around to him. The contract was set two tricks. North's excuse, that he passed on the second round of the bidding, could not offset the information he had given to his partner on the first round, and South was certainly justified in taking the contract to 4-Spades.

At the other table, where North

This deal came up in a recent team-of-four and the results were quite different at both tables.

At one table the bidding started with 1-Diamond by South, 1-Heart by West, 1-Spade by North, pass by East, 2-Diamonds by South, 2-Hearts by West, pass by North, 3-Hearts by East, 4-Spades by

Model Home Attracts Nearly 1,000 Visitors

The unusual amount of interest among Circleville residents in new home construction was clearly demonstrated during the last week when more than 1,000 persons visited Mack Parrett's model home, 509 N. Pickaway street.

No modern convenience within the price range of the average home owner was overlooked by Mr. Parrett in the home construction. It is a Colonial bungalow, consisting of five rooms and bath. The lot is 45 by 150 feet. A garage, matching the home in architecture, is located at the rear. Mr. Parrett's model home is in-ulated inside and out. A hot-air heating plant is used with an air conditioner. The home has hardwood floors with inlaid linoleum in the kitchen and bath. Woodwork is finished in white enamel. All rooms have indirect lighting and an ample supply of outlets for appliances.

Many Conveniences

Among the features of the home are a wood-burning fireplace with ash receiver in the base of the chimney, inside mail receiver at the front door, thief-proof package receiver at the rear door, handy telephone niche, and a modern ventilating hood over the kitchen range.

Considerable interest has been shown by visitors by the dinette. This room is finished in knotty white pine and has a built-in china closet.

The kitchen is finished in a soft-tone green with inlaid linoleum of a marble design and light border. The same covering is used for the sink. Ample cupboard space is provided in the kitchen.

Linoleum in the bath is laid with a cove base for easy cleaning. The bath is finished in black and orchid with a marble design floor covering.

Registers in Walls

All furnace registers in the home are in the walls. Women who have visited the home have expressed their approval of the number and size of the clothes and linen cupboards.

The basement extends under the entire house and includes a large recreation room, laundry, furnace room and dust-proof coal room.

Equipment in the basement includes a gas-saving hot water heater and a water softener. The furnace and air conditioner are automatically controlled.

Building supplies for the home were furnished by The Circleville Lumber Co., and S. C. Grant, plumbing supplies by Cussins & Fearn; floor coverings, shades and curtain fixtures by Griffith & Martin; Russell Jones was electrical contractor; Roy H. Huffer installed the heating plant, air conditioner and metal work; James Ramey was plasterer; C. F. Zwicker, cement contractor; Ralph Meinfelter, brick mason, and William Willoughby, plumbing contractor. William F. Weller, Northridge road, was the general contractor.

20 PERCENT EQUITY REQUIRED IN HOUSE

The man who plans to build a home and wants to finance it under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration must have at least a 20 percent equity in the property. In many instances the free title to the land will constitute this equity. The Federal Housing Administration will insure a mortgage for up to 80 percent of the appraised value of the house and lot, if the amount is not in excess of $16,000.

F.H.A. LITERATURE SHOWS MANY HOUSES

Pictures and sketches of homes built under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration are shown in many pieces of literature available at all local Housing Administration offices. There are no published plans, however, nor does the Federal Housing Administration prepare any.

101 Million Recorded In Lone Month

Vermont Leads States In Activity; Ohio Lists $4,900,000

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 4 — Home mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration already have assumed much of the character of a standardized commodity and, as such, are readily salable in the open market.

Transfers received and recorded by the Federal Housing Administration up to June 30 involve premium-paying mortgages aggregating $101,826,925, or 16.7 per cent of all mortgages insured. Transfers recorded during the first six months of this year amounted to approximately $41,000,000, as against total transfers of $60,000,000 in the entire previous two-year period. A total of 860 institutions have purchased premium-paying mortgages.

Among private investors, insurance companies have been the largest purchasers, accounting for approximately $35,500,000 of the total volume of transfers. National and state banks and trust companies stand second with purchases of approximately $31,500,000. The RFC Mortgage Company, the only Federal agency purchasing mortgages, is the third largest buyer, with savings banks holding fourth place.

Vermont Leads

In 12 states mortgages have purchased insured mortgages aggregating $1,000,000 or more. Vermont leads the list, largely because of the activities of a life insurance company located in the state, which has been the largest purchaser of insured mortgages. New York state's approved lending institutions are the next largest purchasers. The largest single purchase of mortgages was made by the Comptroller of the State of New York from the RFC Mortgage Company.

In the order of the size of the purchases, the 12 states are: Vermont, $19,909,000; New York, $9,853,000; Pennsylvania, $5,817,000; Minnesota, $5,417,000; Indiana, $4,970,000; Ohio, $4,900,000; Missouri, $4,102,000; California, $3,399,000; New Jersey, $2,802,000; Illinois, $2,217,000; Maine, $1,622,000; Maryland, $1,068,000.

These significant statistics are contained in an article in the Insured Mortgage Portfolio, official organ of the Federal Housing Administration.

Sales Encouraged

"The scope of the market which has arisen for insured mortgages is indicated not alone by the volume of transfers but also by the fact that in 46 states there are one or more financial institutions which are now or recently have been actively in the market for them."

OVERLOADED CIRCUIT CAN RESULT IN FIRE

Irons, vacuum cleaners, or other electrical appliances should not be attached to lighting circuits or sockets unless an electrician has been consulted as to the ability of the wiring system to withstand this additional load. Overloaded electric systems might result in fires.

F.H.A. IS PERMANENT

The National Housing Act is permanent legislation, and the Federal Housing Administration is a permanent governmental agency. Treasury guarantees of Housing Administration insurance fund debentures continues until July 1939, but insurance of home mortgages continues with a fund that now totals $15,000,000. This fund is increasing at the rate of $500,000 each month.

CARE FOR SILLS

Particular care should be given to window sills. The paint on them is likely to crack or show other signs of wear before the balance of the trim deteriorates. They receive exceptionally hard wear and should be kept well painted.

CONSERVATIVE AMORTIZATION ASKED BY F. H. A.

Certain out-moded lending practices are constantly discouraged by the Federal Housing Administration as part of its objective of encouraging improvement in housing standards and conditions. Among these are: The second mortgage, oppressive interest rates, costly commissions and expensive renewal fees which prevailed prior to the real-estate collapse, the lot-selling rackets, and shoddy building.

As a constructive and thoroughly sound substitute for these practices the Housing Administration has systematized its conservative, standardized appraisals, long-term monthly amortization of a single mortgage, reasonable interest rates, closer scrutiny of the home buyer's ability to repay his loan and thus doubly protect his interest, and a more careful examination of the home surroundings to protect the value and livability of the home itself.

Good Floors Require Careful Lumber Choice; Proper Laying

A house with bad floors shows depreciation. Even though a building may be soundly constructed, floors that have developed cracks or other irregularities look dowdy and lower value of the property for resale purposes.

When a home is financed under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration its construction has been thoroughly inspected, and the grade of flooring must meet the specifications. However, care when a floor is being laid is necessary to prevent cracks.

The lumber dealer must have properly protected the stock while it was in his hands. It should not be delivered on a damp or rainy day, and it must be kept dry after delivery. The plaster or masonry walls should be thoroughly dry before the flooring is delivered.

As an added precaution, if necessary, heat should be maintained in the house from the time the flooring is delivered until finished by the painter.

NUMBER OF INSURED HOMES GAIN IN 1937

Thirty-five per cent more homes were financed under the Federal Housing Administration insured mortgage plan in the first six months of 1937 than in the same period of 1936. Although there has been some decline in home building since April of this year, the recession has been more marked in metropolitan centers than in smaller cities and towns. It is significant that about 40 per cent of the Housing Administration mortgages accepted for insurance on new properties are situated in smaller cities and towns.

1936 HOME BUILDING UP MUCH OVER 1934

Home building in the United States has dwindled in volume to a point considered almost negligible during the depression. In 1934, for example, only about 50,000 urban and suburban homes were built in the entire country. The steady rise in such building from that year, which saw the formation of the Federal Housing Administration, is reflected in statistics showing a 500 per cent increase in home construction through 1936. Bureau of Labor Statistics data, supported by Housing Administration operating figures, indicate a further upward swing this year.

TWO VILLAGES HAVE CONTESTS IN FALL VOTING

Mayors of Darbyville and Ashville Opposed For Their Positions

MANY PETITIONS ON FILE

Two Members of School Board to Return

Only two Pickaway county villages will have contests for mayor in the November election, it was revealed Saturday as the deadline for candidates to file petitions was passed.

The complete unofficial list of candidates, as announced by the board of elections, appears on Page 2.

Wendell Neff and the Citizens party, Turney M. Calvert.

Harry Margulis, incumbent, seeks re-election as Ashville's mayor. His opponent is E. E. Fraunfelder, former mayor.

Radcliff Unopposed
Nominees for mayor in other villages are: Williamsport, William D. Radcliff; South Bloomfield, William D. Murray; New Holland, C. V. Stebleton; and Commercial Point, George Beers.

Four districts will vote on special issues. Commercial Point will ballot on local option. The petition to place the issue before voters shows 140 votes were cast on the last election. Thirty-five percent of the voters was required to place the issue on the ballot. Fifty-six, six more than necessary, signed the petition.

Deercreek township residents will vote on a proposed gymnasium-school addition requiring a bond issue of $30,000. It would be located east of the school building, would contain two classrooms, a kitchen, locker and shower rooms. The first and second grades would be transferred to the addition.

Wayne township will make a second attempt to vote a $3,000 bond issue for a one-room addition to the school for the seventh and eighth grades, now using the auditorium. A bond issue for the additional room was defeated in the 1936 election.

Scioto township will vote on a three-mill levy for three years for school operating expenses.

Board Members Unopposed
There will be no contest for positions on the Circleville board of education. Mrs. Howard Moore and Lawrence Goeller, whose

BURKE IN FAVOR OF JOHN GARNER FOR PRESIDENCY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Sen. Edward R. Burke, D., Neb., said today he favored Vice-President John N. Garner as the Democratic candidate for president in 1940.

"The country needs now and will need increasingly a leader in the White House who has more than his allotted share of common sense and who will give assurance that business and industry at last will be free to go ahead and take a few millions off the relief rolls," Burke said.

"Jack Garner is that kind of a man."

BLOOD DONATION ASKED AS GRAVE DISEASE SPREADS

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Additional deaths from infantile paralysis were reported in two cities today as Chicago health officials appealed to survivors of the disease to donate blood for convalescent serum.

Three deaths were reported in Toronto and two in Chicago. Dr. Herman Bundesen, president of the Chicago Board of Health, said 14 new cases were reported in Chicago today and that this figure was a new high for this year. Twenty-two other persons in Chicago were suspected of having the disease, he said.

FARMER SHOTS AT INTRUDER IN DARBY TOWNSHIP

An intruder on the property of Harry Furniss, Darby township, Friday night was believed to have been wounded Friday night by a shotgun charge.

Mr. Furniss told Sheriff Charles Radcliff that he heard someone in the barn and investigated with his shotgun. He said a man walked from the building, and he fired. He was a considerable distance from the intruder but believes the shot wounded the man. The man fled into a cornfield after the shot was fired.

SAILOR HUNTED AS SUSPECT IN MATTSON DEATH

Honolulu Police Arrest Man Claiming to Know Killer's Identity

G-MEN GO INTO ACTION

Tacoma Youth Abducted, Killed in 1936

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 4.—(UP)—Honolulu police said today that a sailor from the freighter Manuwal told them that one of his shipmates had admitted he was the kidnaper and slayer of Charles Mattson, 10, of Tacoma, Wash.

J. P. McFarland, department of justice agent, questioned the informing sailor, but refused to comment. The informant gave police the name and description of his shipmate who told of the kidnapping, and police said the description corresponded with that given by eyewitnesses to the kidnapping.

The Mattson boy, son of a Tacoma physician, was taken from his home the evening of Dec. 27, 1936 while he and several other children were playing with Christmas toys. The other children said a bearded man with a deep guttural voice was the kidnaper. The boy's body, mutilated, was found in a snowbank near Everett, Wash.

Discussion Overheard

Honolulu police said the sailor, who claimed to have talked with the Mattson kidnaper was picked up in a beer tavern near the waterfront after he was overheard discussing the case with drinking companions.

He was turned over to the department of justice agent, who left the police station with him. It was learned that McFarland had asked police to start a city-wide search at once for the suspect.

Police watched the waterfront and ships that were preparing to sail were kept under strictest surveillance. Police expressed confidence they would pick up the suspect and said that when they did he would be turned over to federal officials.

The manhunt proceeded with the utmost secrecy and the names of the sailors involved were not revealed.

AGED CARETAKER IN SYNAGOG KILLED BY POKER

STEBELTON, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Police today began investigation of an iron poker murder in a synagogue.

They hunted the slayer of 63-year-old Reuben Mirvis, caretaker of B'Nai Israel synagogue here, whose body was found in the rear room of the building last night by Rabbi Samuel Stamper.

Detectives said Mirvis had been beaten to death by an iron poker, found near the body. They studied fingerprints on the poker.

School Officials Name Stebelton as Secretary

Russell Stebelton, superintendent of Muhlenberg township school, was chosen secretary of the county superintendents' organization Saturday morning. Supplies for the opening of schools next Monday and Tuesday were distributed. All schools with the exception of Ashville, Harrison township, Pickaway and Monroe will open Monday. These schools will open Tuesday.

Lewis Hits Roosevelt And Davey

Labor Leader Speaks on Radio; Active Campaign In Ohio Considered

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(UP)—John L. Lewis marshalled his forces today for a campaign of political action against the opponents of his Committee for Industrial Organization.

The labor leader clarified his plans last night in a radio speech in which he rebuked President Roosevelt.

Without referring to him by name, Lewis said:

"It ill behooves one who has supped at labor's table and who has been sheltered in labor's house to curse with equal fervor and fine impartiality both labor and its adversaries when they become locked in deadly embrace."

Lewis will direct the 3,718,000 members he claimed for the C. I. O. to vote against unfriendly officials when they seek reelection in the 1938 balloting.

Lewis selected Ohio for an early offensive. He predicted Gov. Martin L. Davey, who sent state troops into steel towns to assure peaceful reopening of struck plants, would not be in office "for long." Davey's term ends next year.

The indirect reference to Mr. Roosevelt added weight to repeated reports of a "break" between the president and Lewis.

TRIO OF SMALL GIRLS KILLED AS BOAT EXPLODES

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Three small girls were burned to death today when an explosion destroyed a 45-foot pleasure cruiser aboard which they were cruising to Santa Catalina island with their parents for a week-end holiday.

The parents, two couples, were rescued, badly burned, by the coast guard.

The victims, ranging from 8 to 14 years of age, were Vivian and Viola Timberlake and Alice Tigg.

The girls were sleeping and were trapped below deck by the explosion. The parents were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Timberlake and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tigg. A third couple aboard the cruiser, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berger, also were rescued.

The cruiser sank after the blast and fire. The coast guard patrol boat Aurora was heading for Los Angeles harbor with the children's bodies and the rescued adults. All six survivors were reported burned. The blast occurred below decks in the cabin craft. The cause was unknown.

JAPAN CHARGES SOVIET - CHINESE AIRLINE IN USE

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4.—(UP)—A direct airline between Nanking and Moscow has been opened, paving the way for military co-operation between China and Russia, a Japanese military spokesman intimated today.

The spokesman said the present Chinese air line from Nanking to Lanchow, in the sparsely-settled Chinese northwest, has been extended to Chukuchak, in Russian-dominated territory in Turkestan. There it connects with the Soviet line to Moscow.

The Lanchow-Chukuchak leg will be operated by a joint Chinese-Russian company. Service was opened Aug. 28, when two planes carrying 15 passengers, including Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, Sun Fo and Chin Lee-Fu, made a round trip flight.

RADNOR FARMER WINNER OF OHIO SHEARING JOUST

COLUMBUS, Sept. 4.—(UP)—W. R. Welsh, a 40-year-old farmer living near Radnor, today has the "champion of champions" title awarded in a sheep shearing contest at the Ohio State fair.

Welsh clipped and tied two fleeces in six minutes and 26 seconds. It was the fastest time ever recorded in the seven years the competition has been held.

Welsh won the state championship in 1934. He has been shearing for 18 years and last season clipped about 5,000 heads.

Second place in the competition went to William Locke, 22, Clark county, the winner of the 1937 state title. Locke finished two seconds behind Welsh.

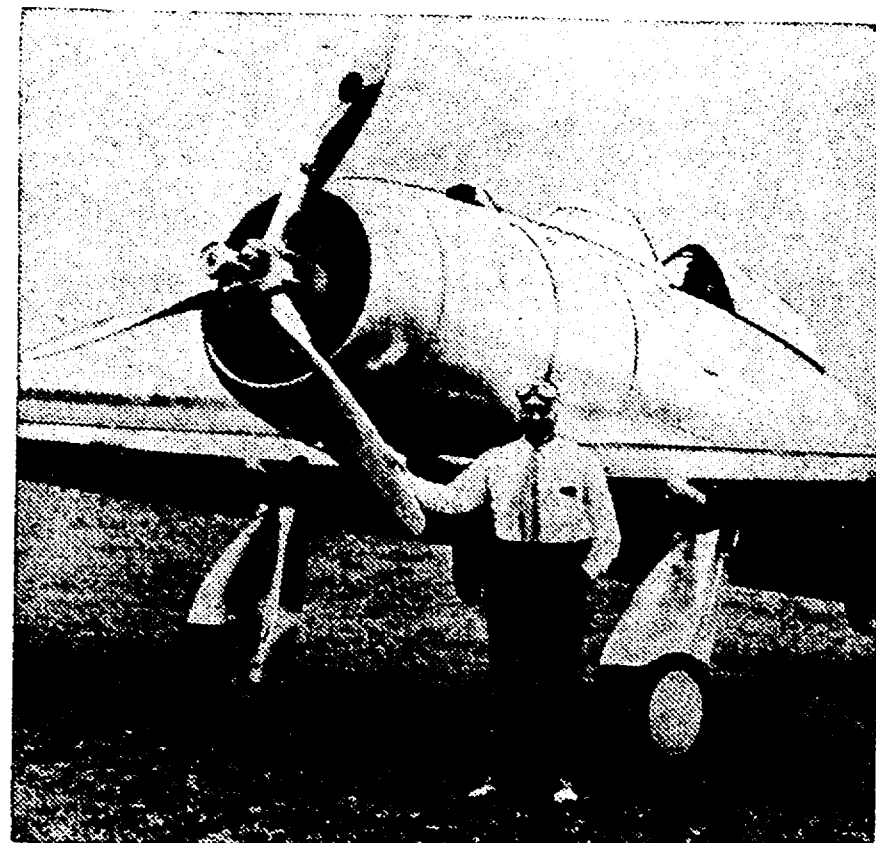

Lawrence W. Davis, Richmond, finished third; and Fred W. Tusing, Reynoldsburg, fourth. The junior championship was gained by Eugene Campbell, 18, of Hopedale.

JOHN COBB HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN CHECK CASE

John Cobb, E. High street, was bound to the grand jury Friday by H. O. Eveland, justice of peace, on a bad check charge filed by O. B. Winters. Mr. Winters charges Cobb gave him a $5 check on July 31 on a bank in which he has no account. Mr. Cobb denied the charge and furnished $500 bond.

Robert Reed, who resides north of Circleville on Route 23, denied a charge of failure to provide for a child in Eveland's court Saturday and was bound to the grand jury under $500 bond. He furnished Lee-Fu, made a round trip flight.

Fuller Cracks Record

SETTING a new Bendix transcontinental record from Los Angeles to Cleveland, Frank Fuller, San Francisco sportsman, made the distance in 7 hours, 54 minutes, cracking the old mark of 8 hours and 20 minutes, set by Jimmy Hazel in 1932. Fuller continued on to Newark, N. J., to complete coast-to-coast flight, with an elapsed time of nine hours and 35 minutes.

Speed Events Scheduled For National Air Races

San Francisco Sportsman Reaches Cleveland in 7 Hours 54 Minutes of Flying Time

CLEVELAND, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Frank W. Fuller, San Francisco sportsman who broke two records to capture the transcontinental Bendix trophy race, returns here today to receive the plaudits of thousands of aviation followers gathered for the National Air Races.

Fuller files here from New York.

Today, the second day of the races opened yesterday by the spectacular Bendix competition, will be featured by two qualifying races to determine 10 starters in tomorrow's $15,000 Louis W. Greve trophy race.

Fuller sped his low-wing Severisky fighter over the Cleveland airport 7 hours, 54 minutes and 26 seconds after he left Los Angeles, and roared on to New York to set a new Bendix mark of 9 hours, 36 minutes.

Two Marks Broken

His time in the race to Cleveland broke the records set by Capt. James T. Hall in 1932, and his transcontinental mark bettered the one established in 1934 by Col. Roscoe Turner.

Jacqueline Cochran, only woman flier in the race, was the first to leave Los Angeles and the first to reach Cleveland. She ranked third in the final standing, based on elapsed time. In second place was Orman, of Los Angeles. Fourth place went to Frank Sinclair, whose time for trip was one minute less than that of Milo Burcham, fifth place winner.

Fuller won $13,000 in prize money. Others who placed divided $15,000. None except Fuller and Miss Cochran flew beyond Cleveland. She turned back at Pittsburgh when difficulties developed in the gas line of her plane.

Biggest thrill of the opening day of the show came late in the afternoon when Count Otto Hagenburg, of Germany, internationally famous stunt pilot, cracked up in his Buecker pursuit plane as he flew, upside down, close to the ground in front of the grandstand.

German To Continue

Hagenburg crawled out of the wreckage, walked to an ambulance and returned later to announce that he would continue stunting in a borrowed plane. The accident occurred when the rudder and a wing-tip of his ship dragged as he swooped too low in his exhibition of inverted flying.

Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Calif., won the Amelia Earhart memorial, a 25-mile race for women pilots, flying stock model planes.

V.F.W. PICKS COLUMBUS

Shanghai Defenders Halt Tokyo's Crack Naval Detachments

Admiral Hasegawa Invited to Visit Yarnell

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Japan, her vaunted war machine halted by a history-making Chinese resistance, rushed a new army to Shanghai today in a desperate effort to capture the city quickly and restore her tarnished prestige.

Chinese intelligence operatives advised the high command that 49 Japanese transports, heavily loaded with troop reinforcements and munitions, had arrived off Woosung at the mouth of the Whangpoo river during the morning.

It was reported that the reinforcements included at least two divisions of infantry on full war footing—meaning a minimum troop strength, if true of from 20,000 to 50,000 men.

Out among the smoldering villages north of the city, China's ill-armed boys and men had stepped the trained automotons of the Japanese army in their tracks.

In the city, Chinese artillery batteries still smashed at the battered Japanese strongholds in Hongkew.

There was evidence that so embarrassing was the unexpected ferocity of the Chinese defense that the Japanese had altered their entire tactical plan.

First, warships were sent down to the mouth of the Whangpoo and around into the Yangtze to try again to blast the stubborn Chinese from where they have held back the Japanese all week.

Secondly, and more important, for the first time since the battle of Shanghai began four weeks ago the Japanese army landed men in the Shanghai sector proper—evidence that the navy lines were crumbling and that immediate reinforcement was necessary.

The American, British and French naval commanders in chief and consul generals held a secret conference today at the American consulate general.

After the conference, it was understood, Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, the American commander in chief, invited Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa to visit him on his flagship Augusta.

Hasegawa's reply was unknown. It was believed certain that the secret meeting concerned the urgent danger to which foreigners in Shanghai, and foreign warships, have been subjected by the new phase of the battle.

Today, as yesterday, shrapnel shells were bursting all over the sky above the international settlement. There were many minor casualties.

But in addition, today there was airplane activity intensified to a degree hardly seen during the four weeks of battle.

In the airplane activity, too, it was notable that the Chinese were giving as good as they got.

RUSSIA TO JOIN DRIVE AGAINST MYSTERY CRAFT

PARIS, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Soviet Russia has decided to send her Black Sea Fleet into the Mediterranean to join in the fight against "pirate" submarines that are attacking neutral commerce, it was reported today in diplomatic quarters.

It was reported in addition that both Turkey and Greece had determined to join in British-French plans for joint anti-submarine warfare. This would give the British-French "pirate hunting" fleet not only the aid of Greek and Turkish warships but the much more valuable cooperation of naval ports and coastal intelligence agents.

Turkey particularly was reported angry and prepared to aid in any way to combat the "pirates."

FAR EAST, SPAIN CRISES CAUSING MARKET SLUMPS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(UP)—Stocks declined to within a fraction of the 1937 lows during the last week and rallied feebly.

Holiday influences, which depleted attendance in Wall street, coupled with fears over war situations in the Far East and Spain, accounted for the setback.

Only a small amount of offering was sufficient to bring wide setbacks, indicating the thinness of the market. It was equally thin on the upside as a temporary recovery on Friday indicated.

Meanwhile, business reports showed a fairly good level of operations. Steel production gained slightly. Automobile output declined, but this was in line with expectations as the change to new models continued. Car loadings and retail trade gained.

Reduction of rediscount rates by federal reserve banks went ahead until all banks except New York were on a 1½ percent basis. New York's rate is 1 percent, the lowest for any central bank in the world. The reductions were made to aid business financing.

FAMED COWBOYS ARRIVE TO HONOR WILL ROGERS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 4.—(UP)—World famous cowboys, rodeo stars, and Sioux Indians gathered today for the pageantry of the dedication of the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun atop Cheyenne mountain.

The bronco riders, some 50 Indians, and the rope artists with whom Rogers was associated, will have a rodeo tomorrow at the Broadmoor Polo grounds as a forerunner to the dedication.

ATE TO BEGIN DRIVE AGAINST TAX CHISELERS

More Than 250 Arrests In Last Month Reported
By Commission

Collections Over Four Millions Behind

COLUMBUS, Sept. 4 — (UP) — The state tax commission, disturbed by dwindling sales tax collections, today announced a "permanent," relentless drive against "chiseling" vendors.

More than 250 arrests have been made in the last 30 days, Joel E. Williams, chief of the sales tax section revealed — an increase of more than 50 per cent over the previous month period.

Announcement of the drive followed a statement by State Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley that receipts throughout the state and particularly in certain rural areas had fallen far short of the anticipated yield.

Williams said, however, the drive was not confined to any particular areas but rather on a state-wide scale. He said examiners in the commission's 17 districts had been instructed to "clamp down."

Examiners Rotated

He said the commission had recently inaugurated the practice of rotating examiners so vendors could not recognize them so easily.

The drive, Williams revealed, began when the commission became concerned over falling receipts.

The most recent report on sales of tax stamps issued by the treasurer's office showed that collections for 1937, up to Aug. 21, were about $4,500,000 behind a similar period in 1936.

It was pointed out, however, that the exemption of food purchased for use off the premises probably resulted in a large part of this decrease.

Also contributing to the slump in collections, Williams said, was the recent series of strikes and the usual seasonal business let-down.

Nevertheless, he said the commission anticipates a large increase in collections in the near future when the full force of the drive is felt.

WORD BLINDNESS AFFLICTS PUPIL IN MINNEAPOLIS

HUTCHINSON, Minn. (UP) — Twelve-year-old Earl Hemple is "word blind" but he is getting ready for some real work in the fifth grade of Minneapolis public schools.

In his spare time he has learned four years of reading.

Bryngelson, head of the University of Minnesota's speech clinic in Minneapolis, says gradually he is curing the boy of a rare ailment. In a short treatment period this summer the clinic made good progress.

Earl's ailment prevents him from connecting meaning and sound with written words. He could write words shown him, but he could not pronounce them. He could not write any word spoken to him, although he understood it perfectly. He scored first grade or below on tests of word recognition and discrimination, sound blending, spelling and oral reading. The speech clinic's problem, Dr. Bryngelson explained, was to build associations for the boy between words and meaningful sounds.

MAGICIAN FAILS, IS BURIED ALIVE WITH PATIENT

HYDERABAD, India (UP)—A magician named Butchia was buried alive with the corpse of a man he had failed to cure near Warangal, central India.

This was revealed when five other men were sentenced to transportation for life for the murder of the magician.

The prosecution stated that Butchia was called in to cure a sick man, and as the man's condition became worse instead of better, the accused tied the magician to a stake and beat him, threatening him with death if he failed to cure their friend.

The sick man died, and Butchia was tied behind the bier, dragged to the burial ground and buried alive with the corpse.

DEPUTY SHERIFF, POLICEMAN DIE IN RESORT DUEL

Holdup Suspect Shot Down
After Officers Trap
Men In Cabin

ry Chapman of Chicago fought for his life in a hospital today. He was wounded three times in the left shoulder. Hospital attendants said today he had a fair chance of surviving.

Patrolman Martin Donnelly, 42, who lost a finger and was shot in the left shoulder, was in good condition today. His wounds were not serious.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Edward Furry, 38; Patrolman Martin Randolph, 45; and a man identified as Robert Cornette of Hamilton were killed. Cornette first was identified as William Y. Cornette of Portsmouth, but police said the latter was his brother, who has a good reputation.

Indian Lake Watched

Officers concentrated their watch today in the vicinity of Indian lake. They received one report that the fugitives had been seen near North Lewisburg. They also chased one suspected automobile from Springfield to Lawrenceville, where they lost track of it.

Two airplanes from Wright field, Dayton, were unsuccessful in an attempt to spot the fleeing robbers.

Patrolman Donnelly told the story of the gun battle at the lake. "A car was parked behind the cottage," he said. "We heard a lock click on the inside. We knocked on the back door but all was quiet. We called for them to come out but there was not a sound."

"Eddie Furry went to his car and got some tools and we both pried up the window in a front room. I climbed in first and Eddie came right after me. From there we went into a west room and then to a north bedroom."

"Eddie was in the lead and just as he stepped in toward the bedroom door a red headed man ran out into the kitchen and squatted down by a closet with a gun in his hand. Eddie shot a couple of times, then I stepped up and shot. Eddie stepped back into the bedroom."

"Just as Eddie backed into the bedroom, fire came from the bedroom closet. They never gave Eddie a chance. He must have been shot in the back."

"I went out the back door and went up to a window and shot toward the closet. I was shot in the shoulder. I don't know how Randolph got shot, but it must have been after one of the bandits came out the front door."

City Prosecutor Abe Gardner said he obtained from the wounded bandit a brief confession that the four held up Robert Smith, son of John Smith, a restaurant owner, and fled to the cottage. Smith had just withdrawn the money from a bank to use in cashing checks of factory workers near the restaurant.

Robert Rose Cornette also was known as H. C. Smith and B. R. Brown. He was received at Ohio penitentiary June 23, 1925, from Washington county on a charge of killing a Marietta policeman. He was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was transferred to London prison farm May 7, 1930. He was given an imminent danger of death release from prison on June 10, 1936.

COURT'S ORDER DELAYS SALE OF ACRES OF CORN MILITARY FUEL WORRIES NAZIS

An injunction restraining sale of corn scheduled for Saturday afternoon was allowed in common pleas Friday on request of Lawrence and Ella N. Hosler, of Columbus, against Worley See, Harry E. Rector, constable of Deercreek township, and Frank Maley, justice of peace.

The plaintiffs say Mr. See filed an action in the justice of peace court, obtained judgment and an execution was issued. They contend that no service of summons had been made. The action says the constable levied on the undivided one-half interest in 130 acres of corn in Jackson township and the sale was arranged.

It is estimated that several of the leading nations in wartime, would run short of mobile power within several weeks.

Even Russia and the United States, overflying with the life-blood of modern fighting forces, could not carry on with normal production during wartime for longer than six months, it is argued, for today's armies, navies and air forces have voracious appetites.

Episcopal Young People To Discuss Today's Tasks

Young people, attending the general convention of the Episcopal Church, which opens in Cincinnati, Oct. 6, will have an opportunity to discuss the problems they are facing today.

Miss Hilda Shaul, adviser in education, Diocese of Southern Ohio, is in charge of arrangements for the young people's program the weekend of Oct. 8, 9, and 10.

"What are the problems young people are facing today, and what resources are available to them as Christians in meeting their problem?" This question has been asked many groups.

Returns from some 50 groups of young people in four dioceses indicate that the outstanding problems of Episcopal Church young people are: "How does one select a vocation?" "What happens at the Holy Communion?" "How does one choose one's friends?" "When does a young person become independent of his family?" "How does one know that the Episcopal Church and Christianity are right?" It is questions such as these which will be discussed at the Week-end for Young People at General Convention.

The theme will be "Thy Will Be Done." Leaders who have consented to participate include Bishop William Scarlett of Missouri, Bishop Clinton S. Quin of Texas, Miss Mary Klemm, Mrs. Stephen K. Mahon, and the Rev. Joseph F. Fletcher.

Many young people themselves, in addition to carrying out program plans, will take part in the platform discussions.

Three services and a banquet will be held, while opportunity will be given to visit the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies; to hear Bishop V. S. Azariah of Dornakal, India; and to attend the great drama of missions, "The Glory of the Light." The cost per night will be $1.50; the banquet $7.50. Registrations must be in before October 1st. Further information may be obtained from Miss Hilda Shaul, 223 West 7th Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

God Requires Social Justice

God laid the foundation for social justice under the laws of Moses by demanding of the people holiness patterned after himself. "Ye shall be holy for I Jehovah your God am holy." Such was the divine injunction.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Leviticus 19:1-18, 32-37.

Poor relief was to be administered by all the people sharing with their needy neighbors: "Thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field . . . Thou shalt leave them for the poor and for the sojourner."

"Thou shalt not oppress thy neighbor, nor rob him." God said, "Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment, in measures, or of weight or of quantity." Justice in wages and treatment of workers was required by God.

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," said God through Moses. Jesus expanded this into the Golden Rule: "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise." (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 6:31.)

Luke 6:31—"As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."

Ashville Traveler Adds Many Strange Elephants

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Maxene Canter, who collects miniature toy elephants as a hobby, has hundreds of them now from nearly every point of the globe. She recently added many to her collection while on her ten-day trip through the South with her brother, Wade, and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hill and their daughter, Grace.

Of course, she knows, the Southland in this U. S. A. is not an elephant habitat. The donkeys are to be preferred there. She got quite a few anyway, when once she made them understand that collecting these animal toys had nothing at all to do with politics.

This was Maxene's first trip to the South. The party was in ten states and saw much that interested her, razor-back hogs and colored people by the millions. Sometime, when that "fatal day" comes, if she can persuade him to go, we feel sure she would like to make the trip again for several weeks, but not when it is so hot.

The Hills were attending the National Letter Carriers convention at New Orleans.

STRATEGY IN CHINA

THE war strategy in the Far East is as puzzling as the military operations are shocking.

So far, Shanghai, the great commercial port with populous international settlements and vast British interests, has been the center of world attention. Enormous destruction has occurred, a great battle has been waged by land, water and air, many thousand fighters and civilians have been killed, and 2,000,000 Chinese are said to have fled from their homes.

Yet expert observers say this engagement is strategically unimportant. The real fighting, they maintain, will be in northeastern China, the country's richest industrial area, whose natural wealth of coal, iron, and so on are coveted by Japan.
It is there that both governments are concentrating most of their troops. The Japanese fighting at Shanghai has been done mainly by warships, airmen and marines.
And the Chinese command, while rushing large bodies of infantry there, has sent little artillery. China's big guns, too, are in the north.

Obviously it would make a wonderful addition to Japan's growing empire if she could add the "five northern provinces" centering at Peiping and making a solid block of territory with Manchukuo and Korea. That would give Japan a continental empire big and rich enough to keep her consolidating and developing it for many years.

But attention naturally turns back to the curious case of Shanghai. There are suggestions that this amazing assault was launched rather irresponsibly by the naval group, which is jealous of the military group. If there is really such a lack of unity in the war program now, what may happen later on, in Tokyo, if the Chinese continue strengthening their resistance north and south?

GARNER'S RISE

ONE of the amazing developments of the last few months is the rise of John Nance Garner to popularity as presidential timber for 1940. The Gallup Poll need not be taken too seriously as actually indicating what the public will think two years from now. Both in April and in August, Postmaster General James M. Farley leads the list of candidates proposed by the people in case Roosevelt is out of the running.
When the time actually comes, it is not at all likely that Farley will stand a chance.
But it is interesting that Garner has moved from fifth place, behind Farley, Earle, Murphy and McNutt, into the position immediately behind Farley, and that Alben

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up with a snuffle, having contracted the cold I had braved by spending the night under a fan in a vain effort to escape the heat. Soon belowstairs and, because of the malady, unable to find flavor in the java. When the dog insisted on a romp did take it outside, exercising to the extent of clapping my hands, which sent the pooch galloping in great ear-flapping circles.
Cranked the wagon and took off for the post, finding a great bundle of mail, but little of importance. At the plant a little sand in the gears, but refused to become excited, knowing full well that nothing runs perfectly in such weather as this.

At the coffee club did meet Fred Wittich, who has a trailer parked along Scioppo and used as a summer home. "Under blankets every night," he declared. Forced to explain that my snuff was not of diabolical, but due to a cold caused by four of my heavy covers sliding off the bed last night.
Fred drank his coffee in silence, paid for his and mine, and then asked me to join him on a Canadian fishing trip later this month. Forced to refuse, which was the only reason I did.

Chatted with Ed Mason, whose store basement is the coolest place in the ville. Dropped in for a visit with Charlie Mack and passed the time of day with George Fitzpatrick, who has just installed an expensive piece of modern equipment in his printery. Bowed in fine friendliness to Dr. Courtright and Meeker Terwilliger, the barrister.

Met Millard Goode and John Griffith, two ambitious youngsters, who soon take off for college. Both intend working their way through school, a difficult task these times, but one to which they are equal. If they find time they will try out for the football teams, but football is secondary with them although both are outstanding athletes.
Such youngsters as these deserve the well wishes of everyone in the ville.

Went with Mack Parrett to inspect his model home and found a house living up to its reputation. Mack has done a fine job there, showing us many innovations in construction. A trip through that house is worth the time of anyone. The scriv-ener was particularly impressed by the large basement with plenty of room for a workshop and game room, and by the cooling system. An orchid to Mack, and may he sell the house at once and start another. We need many new houses in the ville.

Met Frank Fischer, the educator, and being in somewhat of a dark mood did ask him whether he had a pet peeve. "Come with me and I will show you a dozen sources of personal irritation," he said. I did and was shown automobile after automobile parked at improper angles, several of them occupying twice their allotted space because wheels crossed the parking lines.

Received a note from the Rev.
L. C. Sherburne, now on vacation. "Had a nice trip to Connecticut," he wrote. "The route over the Roosevelt Trail and Bear Mountain bridge was wonderful for scenic beauty."

Clarence Wolf should do something about it, and probably will as soon as he learns that Ham Rogers, who accompanied him on that recent far northern fishing trip, is showing a photograph of Clarence sitting in a boat in the middle of a beautiful lake and eating a lunch of sardine sandwiches.

Merry-Go-Round

F. D.'S MOTHER CAN'T BE DIVERTED

WASHINGTON—Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, does not often interest herself in her son's problems of state, but on those few occasions when she does, she is relentlessly persistent about it.

While the President was posing for photographs, before she left for Europe, his mother came in and remarked to Marvin McIntyre, his secretary:

"Mr. McIntyre, have you answered that letter to Mr. Satterlee yet?"

And then without waiting for an an-

"You know it's a very important letter.
It's much more important than most of these other letters you answer, and I don't want you to forget it. I want you to tell Mr.
Satterlee how much Franklin appreciated his letter."

Then, turning to Miss Marguerite Le Hand, the President's private secretary, she continued:

"You'll see that it's answered, won't you, Missy?"

At this point McIntyre sought to divert Mrs. Roosevelt's attention by having her peek through a camera lens to see how her son looked in the picture for which he was posing. However, she was not to be diverted. She took one look, then left the room saying:

"Now don't forget that letter to Mr. Satterlee."

CAMERA ATTACK

Tall, dignified Robert W. Bingham, U.
S. Ambassador to London, is a favorite of cameramen. The minute they spot him they begin clamoring for shots.

When he called on Secretary Hull the other day, the photographers besieged him in full force. Good-naturedly the Ambassador submitted to their insatiable demands.
After snapping him repeatedly with his hat and cane, they asked him to place his hand on the door knob of Hull's private of-
grapers popped away.

"Now, Mr. Ambassador," one of them cried, "please open the door just a little, as if you were entering. We want to get an action picture."

Again Bingham obliged. As he opened the door a secret buzzer automatically sounded on the desk of Hull's Negro messenger. But the messenger did not move.

"Tenille," Hull was heard to say, "why don't you answer that buzzer and see who it is out there?"

"Yes, sir, Mr. Secretary," the messenger replied, "but I know who is out there. It is Ambassador Bingham being attacked by them cameramen."

Barkley of Kentucky, not mentioned at all in April, now has fourth place.

What the poll probably proves is that limelight helps. People vote for the man who gets his name on the front pages of the most papers. But Garner, it must be admitted, took hold of his job with force and decision in the late weeks of the Congressional session. Perhaps that is why the limelight has been shining so brightly upon him. Usually the Vice Presidency is in shadow.

Causes of Eye-Strain in School Youngsters

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
GOOD VISION does not necessarily mean healthy eyes. This is true in childhood. In middle age the converse may be said to be true—poor vision, at least for reading, goes with perfectly normal eyes.

The child in school is asked to read a chart and he reads the 20-20 line, which is the accepted standard for normal vision.
Yet he may have to strain his eyes to achieve this normal vision.

Sooner or later with the continual strain of achieving normal vision in school, he will begin to have symptoms—of headaches, or nervousness, or inattention.

The three optical faults which induce eyestrain are far-sightedness, near-sightedness and astig-matism.

Far-sightedness does not mean good vision in the distance. The eyes have to strain even when looking at a distance. Normal eyes focus distant objects with complete relaxation. Only when doing close work do they have to focus; but focusing in a normal eye is not the same as strain.

In far-sighted eyes the image falls too far back even when the eyes are looking at a distance, and the retina does not receive a clear cut image until the focusing muscle starts working and brings the image upon the retina. That means the focusing muscle never gets a rest.

Result is Strain
This results in constant strain

and leads to nervous symptoms of that strain. Such a child was one aged eight who at home was dis-troubled, irritable and nervous. At school he was indifferent to his work, backward, and his teacher called him lazy. No one for a while suspected his eyes might be the cause of the trouble, because he could always read the smallest line on the test chart, until finally one doctor suggested a "thorough" examination. This means a complete check of the physical health of the eyes and a determination of the total optical error.

These far-sighted children have just such a strain upon the focusing muscle that it is hypertrophied and much stronger than normal, so it is generally agreed among competent oculists that it must be put at rest with medicine before the exact amount of optical error can be measured.

One of the best text books on the eye says, "In every case of hyperopia (far-sightedness) occur-ing in children and young adults, the accommodation should be paralyzed and the total error estimated so as to serve as a prescription for glasses."

When this was done to the child whose case we have recounted, and proper glasses prescribed for him, his improvement was remarkable.
He wasn't really lazy or indifferent, but you can't expect a young fellow to be full of pep when some of his muscles are always on a strain.

CHAPTER 41

"COME IN, please," Carla Mentone's voice that was throaty, yet clear as a bell, called out in response to the knock on her bedroom door.

Mari pushed the knob with her knee and kicked it open; she had brought up Carla's breakfast tray herself.

Carla said, "You shouldn't do this, really."

Mari smiled and put the tray on a table. "I've brought mine, too," she said. "I want to talk to you before the rest of my guests find us."

"I'm Carla Mentone. I was too upset last night to introduce myself properly."

Mari said she knew. "I'm Mari Barat."

"I know." They looked at each other and both burst out laughing.
"It was your dress . . ."
"And it was your beauty . . ."

Mari said.
Carla slipped her fruit juice silently for a few minutes. Then she said:

"It was awfully decent and brave of you. Why did you do it?"

"It was neither," Mari denied.
"What would you have done when you saw a woman pointing a gun?"

"Fainted, probably," the actress said. "But I wasn't thinking that. I'm thinking about your bringing me back here, saying that I have been your guest. Not many women would do a thing like that."

Mari said she thought the coffee was too strong, she'd send for some hot milk—

"I'd rather talk to you," her guest said as she settled back in her pillows. "Did you know about it?"

"I mean Angie and all that?"
Mari nodded. "Naturally I had heard something but it is of no consequence. Please don't feel that you owe me any explanations."

"But I do, my dear, you've not only saved my life which is of little consequence, but you've saved my reputation! As a matter of fact, things are not at all what they seem. Angie is a poor old thing who never has much fun. I've been sorry for him and . . . well, that's usually the way all the rumors begin. I'm always being sorry for people because I remember when no one was sorry for me. I think, perhaps, you are the first woman who has been kind to me."

Mari's eyes widened.
"That's true. And very surprising. I know who you are and what you've done and are doing.

I know what it means to be a woman in your prominent position," Carla continued. "You have no privacy, the world knows everything about you, your pursuits, your friends. And you have to be very careful to be always circumspect. Yet, last night, you risked much for me. I wish I knew why."

"I think I can tell you. I have a deep-rooted feeling that women get the short end of any bargain, so I . . . well, I act on sympathies first and put away thinking until after."

Carla Mentone was genuinely surprised. "My dear, you don't really? You're a woman of the world, not a Washington debutante! Wherever did you get that idea?"

Mari didn't know where she'd got it.

"But surely you know that women are more clever than men?
Surely, with your looks and brains and success, you've never had the short end of a bargain?"

Hastily Mari said, "Of course not."

"Well, then, if a woman can have anything, or any man she wants, what IS the short end?"

Mari went to the window and stared out at the waving mass of blurred trees.

"I never got the man I wanted and I've never wanted anything else."

Carla asked reasonably, "Did you go after him?"

"No, I ran away from him," Mari answered. She managed to smile.

"I can't believe it! How silly!
Why don't you go back and get him?"

Mari shook her head. "Look here, I didn't come up this morning to cry on your shoulder. I have plans to discuss. Would you like to be my guest?"

"Like to? Heavens, child, I've got to be or be torn to threads in the newspapers. I can't afford that now because I'm opening in a new play in six weeks. Kim Charing has done a beautiful job of a play in which I'm opening in New York. It's going to be my biggest triumph on the other side.
Miller is producing it. You know what that means."

Mari knew what it meant.

Poems That Live

UNDER THE LEAVES

Off have I walked these woodland paths,
Without the blessed foreknowing
That underneath the withered leaves
The fairest buds were growing.

Today the south-wind sweeps away
The types of autumn's splendor,
And shows the sweet arbutus flowers, Spring's children, pure and tender.

O prophet-flowers!—with lips of bloom,
Outlying in your beauty
The pearls tints of ocean shells,
Ye teach me faith and duty!

Walk life's dark ways, ye seem to say,
With love's divine foreknowing
That where man sees but withered
leaves,
God sees sweet flowers growing.
—Albert Laighton.

THE MORNING-GLORY
Was it worth while to paint so fair
Thy every leaf—to vein with faultless art
Each petal, taking the boon light
and air
Of summer so to heart?

To bring thy beauty unto perfect flower,
Vanish away, beyond recovery's
or a smile,
Then, like a passing fragrance
power—
Was it, frail bloom, with while?

Thy silence answers: "Life was mine!
And I, who pass without regret
or grief,
Have cared the more to make my moment fine,
Because it was so brief.

"In its first radiance I have seen
The sun!—why tarry then till
comes the night?
I go my way, content that I have
been Part of the morning light!"
—Florence Earle Coates

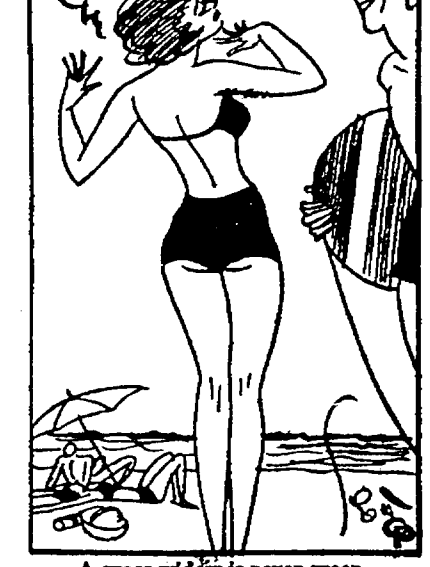

ROSE-MARIE OF THE ANGELS
Little Sister Rose-Marie,
Will thy feet as willing-light
Run through Paradise, I wonder,
As they run the blue skies under,
Willing feet, so airy-light?

Little Sister Rose-Marie,
Will thy voice as bird-note clear
Lift and ripple over Heaven
As its mortal sound is given,
Swift bird-voice, so young and
clear?

How God will be glad of thee,
Little Sister Rose-Marie!
—Adelaide Crapsey

Dinner Stories

WRONG SPORT, PARSON!
A newly rich man was a poor golfer and very ignorant, as well.
One day he was playing a round with a bishop and had a real off-day. After every fizzle he would indulge in a hearty burst of profanity. The bishop, shocked, admonished him. "If you don't respect me, sir, you should at least respect the cloth."

"Cloth, nothing!" snarled the other "we ain't playing bil-lards!"

A Truly Practical Sermon
A clergyman, in the course of his sermon, illustrated his point by saying, "You know you plant them in the shade."

After the service a woman came up to him, her face beaming with pleasure.

"Oh, I'm so grateful for that sermon!" she said, clasping his hand and shaking it warmly. His heart glowed, but only for a moment.

Many at Piano Recital of Richard Valentine

Mrs. R. S. Hosler Aids in Friday Program at Schleyer Home

Large vases of garden flowers decorated the rooms Friday evening when Miss Anna M. Schleyer presented in recital Richard Valentine, pianist, assisted by Mrs. Ralph S. Hosler, soprano. About 50 guests attended.

Mr. Valentine presented a splendidly balanced program in a pleasing manner, showing much intelligence in the matter of interpretation and a substantial technical background. His ensemble work with Miss Schleyer at the second piano was especially good, his tonal quality phrasing and expression being almost identical with Miss Schleyer's.

"The Spanish Dance," by Granados was well done, setting forth much intelligence in contrast between the different movements. With the fine musical background Mr. Valentine has attained during his term of tutelage with Miss Schleyer, his four-year course at Capital University which he will begin September 7 will be a continuation of a solid musical education.

A gratifying part of the program was the group of songs offered by Mrs. Ralph S. Hosler, of Ashville. Mrs. Hosler has a lovely soprano voice which she uses to good advantage and the listener gets a splendid conception of both the poetic and melodic side of her songs. The group which she offered presented a very happy contrast to the rest of the program. Her numbers included "Bird Songs at Eventide," by Brahe, "Do You Know My Garden," and "Bless This House," by Eric Coates.

Mr. Valentine's program included the following numbers:

- Prelude, Op. 28, No. 1..... Chopin
- Prelude, Op. 28, No. 20..... Chopin
- Waltz, Op. 64, No. 1..... Chopin
- Duo-Rondo, Op. 51, No. 1..... Beethoven
- Prelude, C sharp minor..... Rachmanninoff
- Menuetto..... Schubert
- Duo-Air..... Bach
- Bourée, B minor..... Bach
- Spanish Dance..... Granados
- Duo-Deep River..... Negro Melody
- Duo-Country Gardens..... Grainger
- Miss Schleyer at the second piano.

CLOTHES FOR SCHOOLGIRL SMART, PRACTICAL

By LISBETH
RIGHT NOW everyone is concerned about the school and college girl. She is the Big Worry. She must be gotten ready for school no matter what other important matters are on hand.

Shop windows are full of suggestions for her, whole store departments cater to her, newspaper ads make suggestions—so do we stylists—so really she should be outfitted very nicely indeed, and the family be left to attend to other matters.

Illustrating this little yarn is a picture of a Hollywood high school girl who is said to be hailed by critics as the new "It girl of pictures"—the 1937 Clara Bow. She is wearing an interesting costume that might give a college or high school girl a suggestion—or her mother, anyway.

The skirt is tweed and gored. It might be almost any good woolen material. Its simplicity is its smartness. A plaid silk blouse is youthful and becoming, and over that is worn a regular "weskit" of dark silk. It is sort of a jumper blouse effect—if you know what I mean.

Everything Featured
Hats, hosiery, lingerie, pajamas, dresses, some of them called "date" dresses, coats and whatnots are all especially highlighted for the college girl. Velvet in one or two-piece stylings are shown for these young women and make smart and practical dresses for class, campus and "date" wear. They usually are seen in the new pencil silhouette and with bright touches as in brass buttons, and favorite colors are green, wine and brown.

If it's a fur coat our college girl

evening was arranged by Miss Charlotte Bell. Jane Bell opened the program with two piano solos, and she was followed by Mrs. Cliff Miller, who sang a group of songs accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Harriet Henness. Wahmna Barnhart and Ruby Chalfin each played one accordion number.

A buffet lunch was served during the social hour from an attractively arranged table having a centerpiece of asters interspersed with slender burning tapers in a crystal bowl, and flanked with tall green candles in matching holders.

The members of the hostess committee were Mrs. F. E. Heraldson, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. Stanley Peters, Mrs. Hott, Mrs. H. J. Blue, Miss Bell, Mrs. Earl Figgatt, Mrs. Robert Denman, and Mrs. Beatrice Herkless.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Breakfast Dishes Men Like
Do you serve the same breakfast day in and day out? Just because your husband and the men in your family have accepted fruit, toast and coffee—with an egg and breakfast cereal for occasional variety that does not mean they have no desire for any other breakfast dishes. So vary the program and serve a hearty meal, especially on Sunday, suggests Byron MacFadyen, in Good Housekeeping.

He suggests you go the limit and serve the meal in courses. If you start with fruit juice, be sure to have it well chilled. Then don't forget that cereal belongs in breakfasts of this sort. A crisp, ready-to-eat cereal or one of those delicious piping hot kinds is always welcome served with rich milk or cream. Have you ever eaten a ready-to-eat cereal with a baked apple or applesauce? If you haven't—you've a treat in store. Try it with lots of top milk or cream, suggests Mr. MacFadyen. Don't overlook jellies and jams. They are just as important in a course breakfast as salted nuts, olives and celery are in a course dinner. Although one kind of jelly 'jam will do, there's more appeal in serving three or four, such as marmalade, strawberry jam and apple jelly. Then plan your main course dish. For instance, something new and extra nice is creamed beef with baked tomato slices. Or beef kidney stew. Serve with hot cereal and bananas, plenty of muffins and good coffee—and you have a grand breakfast.

Keeping Apples
To be sure your basket of apples will keep, rub them over with a little glycerine. The glycerine will wash off readily when you want to use the apples, and that isn't really necessary, because the glycerine, besides being tasteless and odorless, is entirely pure and wholesome.

Charlie Wagner Scores His Nineteenth Victory

BY UNITED PRESS
Columbus pulled away from the rest of the pack by sweeping a twin bill from Louisville and stood two full games ahead of the second place Minneapolis club today.

The Red Birds relied on Lanier to score their first victory and the youngster scored a 5 to 0 shut-out, allowing only five singles. The second game was a 5 to 2 triumph for the ace Columbus hurler McKee, who also allowed but five hits.

Minneapolis moved into second place ahead of Toledo, by besting Milwaukee, 8 to 3. Wagner, the winning hurler, chalked up his 19th victory of the season.

Toledo ran into some unexpected opposition at the hands of Indianapolis, and the Indians shoved the Mud Hens back by winning a double header, 10 to 6, and 10 to 8. A nine run rally in the second inning of the first tilt allowed the winners to coast.

Al Piechota, new Kansas City pitcher, won his second game since donning a blue uniform beating St. Paul by the shut-out route, 8 to 0. His good work was of no avail, however, since the Saints came back to batter a pair of Blue pitchers in the second game, winning 10 to 1, and making the night's work all even. Art Herring worked this game for St. Paul and was rarely in difficulty.

INDIANS GAIN GROUND

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 4 — (UP) — The Cleveland Indians, roaring along at a fast season clip, today were only three games removed from a fourth division berth. Steve O'Neill's rejuvenated aggregation has a chance to make up still more ground over the weekend as it plays double-headers with the St. Louis Browns today and tomorrow.

DUCKY MEDWICK STILL HAS EDGE OVER NATIONALS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 — (UP) — Joe Medwick, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, and Charlie Gehring, Detroit, second baseman, still set the pace in the major league batting races, according to the averages released today and including games of Thursday, Sept. 2.

Medwick added .02 points to his average for .392, giving him a 17-point lead over Paul Waner, Pittsburgh, who slumped 12 points to .375.

Gehring's average shrank from .387 to .384, and he lost seven points to his nearest rival, Lou Gehrig, Yankees, who increased his mark from .364 to .368. Charlie Root, Cubs, led National league pitchers with 12 victories and four defeats. Johnny Allen, Cleveland, grabbed the American league lead with eight victories and no defeats.

CIRCUIT CLOUT BY MERLE DAVIS WINS 2-0 GAME

Container Athlete Drives Buck Hutchinson Home To Gain Title

PLAYOFF OPENS TUESDAY

Bob Jones In Rare Form, But Is Loser

A home run by Merle Davis with Buck Hutchinson on base in the fourth inning, Friday evening, won the championship of the second half of the Tri-County Recreation league for the Container Corporation over the Coca Cola. The score was 2-0.

Both teams had gone scoreless until the fourth when Hutchinson doubled after two were out. Davis plastered the ball over Charlie Davis' head in center field and scampered around the bases to tally himself. The game was limited to six innings because of darkness. Leonard Buskirk tossed them in for the winners, scattering four hits over the six frames, but Bob Jones tossing for the losers did even better. He refused to permit a hit except in the inning when Davis connected. Each team committed two errors.

The league championship series will start Tuesday evening with Containers playing the Cooper Oils of Commercial Point. The first team to win three games will be declared the league titlist.

The Coopers annexed the first half title.

CINCINNATI GAINS 9 TO 1 EDGE OVER ST. LOUIS CARDS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4 — (UP) — The Cincinnati Reds today finally had gained a triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals and put another dent in the sagging pennant hopes of the Gas House gang.

The Reds downed the Cardinals 9 to 1 here last night in the final night contest of the National league season.

Ray (Peaches) Davis secured his ninth triumph of the season as he limited the Cards to five hits. The only St. Louis run came in the fifth inning on Leo Durocher's single and a triple by Bruste Ogdowski.

Ray Harrell was in the box for the Cards at the start of the contest. He gave up one run in the first, another in the fourth and then was shelled from the box in the fifth as the Reds put on a seven-run spurge.

Jess Haines and the rookie Tom Sunkel finished the contest for the Cards.

SCHMELING WINS LOUIS CONTRACT FOR NEXT JUNE

NEW YORK, Sept. 4 — (UP) — Former Champion Max Schmeling of Germany sailed for home tonight with a contract to fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight title "somewhere in the United States" next June.

Maxie had to reduce his demands from 30 percent of the gate to 20 percent to get Promoter Mike Jacobs to make the match, but he explained, "I want the title more than I want the money." Louis will get the usual champion's share of 37 1/2 percent.

Schmeling had to sign himself over to Jacobs until September 1939, agreeing (if he defeated Louis again) to defend the title in September, 1938 against the winner of a heavyweight elimination tournament announced this week.

The following provisos were included: Schmeling may engage in one tuneup match either in Germany or the United States, but in the case of the former he is not permitted to meet Tommy Farr. Bob Pastor, Jim Braddock or either Maxie or Buddy Baer.

Louis is neither bound to refrain from exhibition or title matches, but if he should lose his title, Jacobs agrees that Schmeling will meet the new champion next June and will receive 35 percent of the gate instead of the 20 he will get for facing Louis.

About This And That In Many Sports

Season Nears Close For Many Sports

The sports caravan moves down the trail, baseball, tennis, golf, horse racing, all having their time on the field of action, but ere long the thud of a shoe against the pigskin of a football will fill the air. . . . Which should remind one and all that the high school season opens just one week from next Friday on the local field. . . . American association teams are all looking up to the Columbus Red Birds, now a game and a half on top the A. A. race. . . . The Yankees have lost three in a row and have their followers concerned despite their nine game lead. . . . The Giants remember very distinctly that crack made a few years ago about the league in which Brooklyn operates. . . . Ripper Collins almost ready to get back into uniform to add much to the last lap drive of the Cubs. . . . National matches being conducted at Forest Hills for the best racket wielders in the country, and Pickaway county's own doubles tourney to start Sunday at the Pickaway Country Club. . . . Many, many fans will greet the football season even though the heat of the present week is doing its best to keep the gridiron game out of the minds of scores, including a few boys who should be drilling with the Red and Black. . . . Jack Landrum has given his hopefuls several plays, and the squad is expected to take much shape next week. . . . A record might have been made Friday evening at the Country Club when Bill Crist scored a deuce on No. 1. . . . His drive was about 180 yards, but a spoon shot traveled into the cup. . . . Never before has ye janitor heard of an eagle on this hole although that doesn't mean that it hasn't happened, of course. . . . Many wonder what will happen to the Cincinnati Reds prior to the next season of baseball. . . . Ye must remember that the Reds were to finish in the first division this season. . . . If they stay out of the cellar they will be fortunate, indeed, very fortunate. . . . Fans who have seen them, that is some fans, claim Hafey, Cuyler and a few more are too old for the Big Show, that the infield is not strong enough, and that Charlie Dresen would make a better cigar salesman than manager. . . . There are some who contend that Ernie Lombardi is the only ball player on the team, forgetting that Lee Grissom still pitches for the club, and that Les Scarcella is the world's worst first sacker. . . . After all, aren't the Reds about where they belong in the loop? *

IF THE OPPONENT to the left of the original bidder passes, it is up to his partner to strain every effort to keep the bidding open to provide for the possibility that the opener may have a lot of surplus values. If, however, the intervening opponent injects a bid, he has done the work of keeping the bidding open and there is consequently no need for the opener's partner to break in. Unless he has a good hand to show. Hence a bid over a hostile overall shows substantial power. Making such a bid without that strength can cause all kinds of trouble.

South, who felt with his partner's free overcall on the first round, the support rebid by West and the support shown by his partner that North was very short in that suit, and as he held good support for spades, he would make his partner to game. East doubted this when it came around to him. The contract was set two tricks. North's excuse, that he passed on the second round of the bidding, could not offset the information he had given to his partner on the first round, and South was certainly justified in taking the contract to 4-Spades.

Model Home Attracts Nearly 1,000 Visitors

The unusual amount of interest among Circleville residents in home construction was clearly demonstrated during the last week when more than 1,000 persons visited Mack Parrett's model home, 509 N. Pickaway street.

No modern convenience within the price range of the average home owner was overlooked by Mr. Parrett in the home construction. It is a Colonial bungalow, consisting of five rooms and bath. The lot is 45 by 150 feet. A garage, matching the home in architecture, is located at the rear.

Mr. Parrett's model home is in-work is finished in white enamel. All rooms have indirect lighting and an ample supply of outlets for appliances.

Many Conveniences

Among the features of the home are a wood-burning fireplace with ash receiver in the base of the chimney, inside mail receiver at the front door, thief-proof package receiver at the rear door, handy telephone niche, and a modern ventilating hood over the kitchen range.

Considerable interest has been shown by visitors by the dinette. This room is finished in knotty white pine and has a built-in china closet.

The kitchen is finished in a soft-tone green with inlaid linoleum of a marble design and light border. The same covering is used for the sink. Ample cupboard space is provided in the kitchen.

Linoleum in the bath is laid with a cove base for easy cleaning. The bath is finished in black and orchid with a marble design floor covering.

Registers in Walls

All furnace registers in the home are in the walls. Women who have visited the home have expressed their approval of the number and size of the clothes and linen cupboards.

The basement extends under the entire house and includes a large recreation room, laundry, furnace room and dust-proof coal room.

Equipment in the basement includes a gas-saving hot water heater and a water softener. The furnace and air conditioner are automatically controlled.

Building supplies for the home were furnished by The Circleville Lumber Co., and S. C. Grant, plumbing supplies by Cussins & Fearn; floor coverings, shades and curtain fixtures by Griffith & Martin; Russell Jones was electrical contractor; Roy H. Huffer installed the heating plant, air conditioner and metal work; James Ramey was plasterer; C. F. Zwicker, cement contractor; Ralph Meinfelter, brick mason, and William Willoughby, plumbing contractor. William F. Weller, Northridge road, was the general contractor.

The man who plans to build a home and wants to finance it under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration must have at least a 20 percent equity in the property. In many instances the free title to the land will constitute this equity. The Federal Housing Administration will insure a mortgage for up to 80 percent of the appraised value of the house and lot, if the amount is not in excess of $16,000.

F.H.A. LITERATURE SHOWS MANY HOUSES

Pictures and sketches of homes built under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration are shown in many pieces of literature available at all local Housing Administration offices. There are no published plans, however, nor does the Federal Housing Administration prepare any.

Vermont Leads States In Activity; Ohio Lists $4,900,000

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 4

Home mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration already have assumed much of the character of a standardized commodity and, as such, are readily salable in the open market.

Transfers received and recorded by the Federal Housing Administration up to June 30 involve premium-paying mortgages aggregating $101,826,925, or 16.7 per cent of all mortgages insured. Transfers recorded during the first six months of this year amounted to approximately $41,000,000, as against total transfers of $60,000,000 in the entire previous two-year period. A total of 860 institutions have purchased premium-paying mortgages.

Among private investors, insurance companies have been the largest purchasers, accounting for approximately $35,500,000 of the total volume of transfers. National and state banks and trust companies stand second with purchases of approximately $31,500,000. The RFC Mortgage Company, the only Federal agency purchasing mortgages, is the third largest buyer, with savings banks holding fourth place.

Vermont Leads

In 12 states mortgages have purchased insured mortgages aggregating $1,000,000 or more. Vermont leads the list, largely because of the activities of a life insurance company located in the state, which has been the largest purchaser of insured mortgages. New York state's approved lending institutions are the next largest purchasers. The largest single purchase of mortgages was made by the Comptroller of the State of New York from the RFC Mortgage Company.

In the order of the size of the purchases, the 12 states are: Vermont, $19,909,000; New York, $9,853,000; Pennsylvania, $5,817,000; Minnesota, $5,417,000; Indiana, $4,970,000; Ohio, $4,900,000; Missouri, $4,102,000; California, $3,399,000; New Jersey, $2,802,000; Illinois, $2,217,000; Maine, $1,622,000; Maryland, $1,068,000.

These significant statistics are contained in an article in the Insured Mortgage Portfolio, official organ of the Federal Housing Administration.

Sales Encouraged

"The scope of the market which has arisen for insured mortgages is indicated not alone by the volume of transfers but also by the fact that in 46 states there are one or more financial institutions which are now or recently have been actively in the market for them."

OVERLOADED CIRCUIT CAN RESULT IN FIRE

Irons, vacuum cleaners, or other electrical appliances should not be attached to lighting circuits or sockets unless an electrician has been consulted as to the ability of the wiring system to withstand this additional load. Overloaded electric systems might result in fires.

F.H.A. IS PERMANENT

The National Housing Act is permanent legislation, and the Federal Housing Administration is a permanent governmental agency. Treasury guarantees of Housing Administration insurance fund debentures continues until July 1939, but insurance of home mortgages continues with a fund that now totals $15,000,000. This fund is increasing at the rate of $500,000 each month.

CARE FOR SILLS

Particular care should be given to window sills. The paint on them is likely to crack or show other signs of wear before the balance of the trim deteriorates. They receive exceptionally hard wear and should be kept well painted.

CONSERVATIVE AMORTIZATION ASKED BY F. H. A.

Certain out-moded lending practices are constantly discouraged by the Federal Housing Administration as part of its objective of encouraging improvement in housing standards and conditions. Among these are: The second mortgage, oppressive interest rates, costly commissions and expensive renewal fees which prevailed prior to the real-estate collapse, the lot-selling racket, and shoddy building.

As a constructive and thoroughly sound substitute for these practices the Housing Administration has systematized its conservative, standardized appraisals, long-term monthly amortization of a single mortgage, reasonable interest rates, closer scrutiny of the home buyer's ability to repay his loan and thus doubly protect his interest, and a more careful examination of the home surroundings to protect the value and livability of the home itself.

Good Floors Require Careful Lumber Choice; Proper Laying

A house with bad floors shows depreciation. Even though a building may be soundly constructed, floors that have developed cracks or other irregularities look dowdy and lower value of the property for resale purposes.

When a home is financed under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration its construction has been thoroughly inspected, and the grade of flooring must meet the specifications. However, care when a floor is being laid is necessary to prevent cracks.

The lumber dealer must have properly protected the stock while it was in his hands. It should not be delivered on a damp or rainy day, and it must be kept dry after delivery. The plaster or masonry walls should be thoroughly dry before the flooring is delivered.

Thirty-five per cent more homes were financed under the Federal Housing Administration insured mortgage plan in the first six months of 1937 than in the same period of 1936. Although there has been some decline in home building since April of this year, the recession has been more marked in metropolitan centers than in smaller cities and towns. It is significant that about 40 per cent of the Housing Administration mortgages accepted for insurance on new properties are situated in smaller cities and towns.

1936 HOME BUILDING UP MUCH OVER 1934

Home building in the United States has dwindled in volume to a point considered almost negligible during the depression. In 1934, for example, only about 50,000 urban and suburban homes were built in the entire country. The steady rise in such building from that year, which saw the formation of the Federal Housing Administration, is reflected in statistics showing a 500 percent increase in home construction through 1936. Bureau of Labor Statistics data, supported by Housing Administration operating figures, indicate a further upward swing this year.
